Astronauts Given Go For Monday

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — With one of the cold-plagued Apollo 9 astronauts cured and the other two "much improved," launch crews received the green light Saturday to continue preparations for a Monday launching.

Dr. Charles A. Perry, chief astronaut physician, announced after an extensive physical examination that Air Force Col. David R. Scott was over his cold.

Berry reported that the other two astronauts, James A. McDivitt and Russell L. Schweickart, were much better. All three were taken off medication, but McDivitt and Schweickart continued to take vitamin C and to gargle with hot salt water to relieve their sore throats, now classified as minor.

Another examination was scheduled for Sunday, but doctors felt the astronauts would be well enough to rocket into space as scheduled. The colds had forced a 3-day postponement, the first time that illness has delayed a U.S. man-in-space mission.

The spacemen were well-rested after sleeping more than nine hours. Schweickart and Scott each jogged a mile at the moonport and McDivitt exercised in a gymnasium.

They had planned to rest most of the day, but they felt so good that they climbed into a space-craft trainer to rehearse parts of their demanding flight, the most complex man-in-space mission ever attempted.

Launch-time is set at 11 a.m. Monday.

While circling the earth for 10 days, the astronauts' main job is to prove the flight worthiness of the lunar module—LEM—the spindly-legged vehicle designed to land two men on the moon, hopefully on the Apollo 11 flight next July.

The LEM rides into orbit aboard the same Saturn 5 rocket. Once in space the astronauts are to link the main Apollo command module to the LEM and operate the combined vehicles for several days. On the fourth day, Schweickart plans a two-hour space walk in which he transfers hand-over-hand on railings from the LEM to the command module and back to the LEM. Purpose is to demonstrate this emergency transfer method in case the two vehicles can't dock or a connecting crawl-through tunnel is blocked.

On the fifth day, McDivitt and Schweickart are to fly the LEM 109 miles away and execute a tricky rendezvous and docking exercise in which they seek out Scott in the command module. LEM is not built to re-enter the atmosphere, so they must rejoin Scott in order to get home.

Apollo 9 is the 19th manned vehicle sent into space by the United States and the first in which two separate ships were ticketed to be lofted by the same rocket.

The two ships are the main Apollo ship, called the command module, and the lunar module, the spindly-legged craft designed to land men on the moon.

Twenty-three different American astronauts have logged flight time, with several making two or three trips for a total of 35 men in space. In the 18 previous launchings, the astronauts recorded a total of 3,215 hours 10 minutes flight time.

The longest American flight was 13 days, 18 hours, 35 min.

DeGaulle Invited To U.S.

PARIS (AP) — President Nixon, after two days of talks with President Charles de Gaulle, said Saturday his personal diplomacy in France and other nations of Europe had set a tone of cooperation which will help break any future "diplomatic logjam" among the Western allies.

Nixon suggested that the French president, sometimes a troublesome partner, travel to Washington for another round of face-to-face talks.

That account of the President's conferences in Paris and Versailles came from White House press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler as the President neared the conclusion of his eight-day swing through five allied nations.

Twice during a day of talks at the Trianon Palace, overlooking the gardens of Versailles, the two presidents conferred alone, except for interpreters.

One Saturday session lasted 93 minutes, the other an hour and 28 minutes. On Friday, Nixon and De Gaulle conferred for 2 hours and 10 minutes.

Another one-hour talk is scheduled for Sunday before Nixon leaves Paris for Vatican City where he will wind up his tour with a visit to Pope Paul VI.

"The President feels that this unprecedented amount of time devoted to the talks provided an opportunity for a full exchange of views and for significant progress toward developing a cooperative approach toward some of the issues involved," Ziegler said. "The extensive private talks were cordial, informative and candid."

Ziegler refused to discuss in any but the most vague and general terms the topics involved.

Asked whether the conferences had led to an improvement in the outlook for French-American relations, Ziegler said: "I wouldn't characterize them one way or the other."

The two presidents emerged smiling after two sessions in the elegant Trianon. Nixon went on to a meeting with a group of French citizens in Paris where 5,000 leftwingers had paraded earlier in protest against the Vietnam war.

A French spokesman said

"very good results" can be expected for French-American relations from the Nixon-De Gaulle talks.

Roger Vauvry of the French Foreign Office said the two presidents discussed all the subjects considered essential to both sides.

"This was not a negotiation; it was an exchange of views and a clarification of positions," he commented. "We think these clarifications will have very good results as far as relations between the two countries are concerned. There was as much frankness and cordiality in the exchanges as there was confidence."

The French spokesman declined to list what subjects were discussed by the two presidents in the privacy of De Gaulle's Trianon office.

"I will not enumerate them for you," he told newsmen. "You know them as well as I do."

The demonstrators, called out by the French Communist party to show its support for the South Vietnamese National Liberation Front, broke up when the marchers encountered a blockade of helmeted riot police.

Shaw Cleared Of Conspiracy

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP) — The verdict of a 12-man jury cleared Clay L. Shaw Saturday of plotting President John F. Kennedy's assassination and laid to rest Dist. Atty. Jim Garrison's bizarre conspiracy case.

"We the jury find the defendant not guilty," was the unanimous verdict that repudiated Garrison's last emotional appeal for a "conviction" of the Warren Commission and "excessive government power."

The 6-foot-6 district attorney left the courtroom after his near-midnight finale, before the verdict on the 34th day of the trial.

Garrison, who told the jury the Warren Commission was fraudulent, had no comment on the outcome of his case charging Shaw conspired with Lee Harvey Oswald and David W. Ferrie, both now dead, to kill Kennedy.

Judge David I. Pove said after court adjourned: "Garrison has a right to his opinion about the government and the Warren Commission. But I just don't feel his opinion is enough to convict a man."

Within hours, Garrison's resignation was demanded in a front-page editorial by the New Orleans States-Item. "He has shown himself unfit to hold the office," the newspaper said. "He has perverted the law rather than prosecuted it."

The States-Item said the "persecution" of Shaw was "a perversion of the legal process such as has not been often seen."

Shaw heard the verdict with tears of gratitude. "Great. Simply great," he said.

The white-haired 6-foot-4 Shaw, retired managing director of International Trade Mart, shook each juror's hand as his vindicators—themselves smiling broadly—filed out shortly after the 1:02 a.m. verdict.

The jury, which included three Negroes, was out only 54 minutes. When the verdict was read, screams and applause erupted in a wild demonstration. Several women cried: "No! No!"

Security had been greatly tightened. Shaw and his lawyers were ringed by nine deputies. After the jury left, Shaw was whisked off in the sheriff's car.

The verdict came exactly two years after Shaw's arrest on March 1, 1967, on the charge of criminal conspiracy that carries a penalty of 1-to-20 years.

Reds Plan Meetings

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP) — A Yugoslav report said Saturday a meeting of leaders of Communist countries, members of the Warsaw Pact and of the Council for Mutual Economic Assistance will meet in Moscow probably at the end of March.

Earlier reports from East European sources said the summit meeting would take place in Budapest March 18.

The Yugoslav news agency Tanjug reported from the Soviet capital that the meeting will be held there are the end of this month.

The report added that the Berlin crises might serve to speed up talks for closer integration of armed forces of the Warsaw Pact countries.

Within hours, Garrison's resignation was demanded in a front-page editorial by the New Orleans States-Item. "He has shown himself unfit to hold the office," the newspaper said. "He has perverted the law rather than prosecuted it."

Saigon Digs In

Expect Heavy VC Attack

SAIGON (AP) — The allies seized the initiative in ground action Saturday, but U.S. military analysts cautioned that the biggest enemy blows probably are yet to come.

On the seventh day of the enemy's new offensive, more than 50 cities and military installations were shelled. But nowhere did the enemy follow up with ground attacks.

Instead, allied forces went out looking for the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong. U.S. troops engaged in a series of skirmishes 25 to 35 miles northwest of Saigon. They reported killing 55 enemy soldiers. U.S. casualties were three killed and five wounded.

Fighting elsewhere was reported as far north as the area of the demilitarized zone that divides North and South Vietnam.

U.S. and South Vietnamese officers estimated 6,600 Viet Cong and North Vietnamese have been killed since the enemy offensive opened last Sunday, compared with 538 South Vietnamese and more than 300 Americans killed.

The Americans say the enemy may send battalions to attack Saigon at any time. There are four enemy divisions all within striking distance of the capital, which is believed to be the main objective of the offensive.

Captured enemy documents indicate the Communist command has designated a 1-23 phase offensive covering 34 days. The documents show the Communist command scheduled five days of intensive shelling. 10 days of concentrated attacks on major cities to pull in allied units to defensive positions, and then 19 days of rooting out government control in the countryside.

If successful, the offensive would give the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong negotiators at the Paris peace talks some claim to nominal control over much of the countryside.

Despite this threat, the government went ahead with plans to hold elections for local officials in 3,500 hamlets and villages Sunday. Since elections were suspended 13 years ago because of Viet Cong terrorism, local officials have been appointed.

The government said overnight shelling of cities, including five provincial capitals, and terrorism killed at least 12 civilians and wounded 82.

Among bases hit was Da Nang in the north. A number of 140mm rockets smashed into the U.S. Marine supply depot just north of the city, but casualties were reported light and there was little damage.

Democrats Eye Stronger Party

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democratic reformers agreed Saturday that to save itself from extinction their party must throw open its nominating convention doors to racial minorities, the poor and the young.

But members of a commission on party structure, headed by Sen. George McGovern of South Dakota, wrangled in their first public session on how to go about the selection of 1972 convention delegates by democratic procedures in which all elements of the party could participate.

Sen. Harold E. Hughes of Iowa, told the group that past party conventions have been largely "the private domain of the rich, the white and the party regular."

The commission obviously agreed with his assertion that the party needs to attract racial minorities, the poor and the young. And he said they are "restlessly searching... for a political movement that will measure up to their ideals and be relevant to their needs."

Hughes, one of those who privately urged Sen. Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts to seek the 1968 presidential nomination, urged a fair-share formula for selection of convention delegates.

Under this system, endorsed by Sen. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine, the 1968 vice presidential candidate, states not only would abolish the unit rule of voting but would give proportional representation to minorities at all stages of the selection of delegates.

Reds Say Air Space Violated

BERLIN (AP) — The Russians injected charges of abuse of air corridors into verbal duelling with the Western powers Saturday over West Berlin, from which autobahn traffic was again temporarily interrupted by East German soldiers.

The United States, Britain and France rejected as groundless accusations from the Soviet Union of West German military activity in the former West German capital, isolated 110 miles deep in Communist East German territory.

"It is only in the eastern (Communist) sector of Berlin that organized military activity has taken place," the Western Big Three declared in a joint statement issued through their embassies in Bonn.

A direct confrontation arose when a squad of helmeted East Germans, carrying Russian-made submachine guns and backed by Soviet approval and Warsaw Pact troop movements, barricaded the main highway to Berlin for two hours at its entry point opposite Helmstedt, in West Germany.

Later in the day an East German patrol boat fired machine-gun bursts at a West German freighter, the 286-ton Wallo, which engine trouble veered off course in Communist Baltic sea waters. Damage was slight, no injuries were reported and the Wallo cruised on to Karlskrona, Sweden.

Communist authorities oppose the scheduled election of a new West German president in West Berlin Wednesday by a Federal Assembly of electors, contending West Berlin is not a part of West Germany but a third German entity.

Chancellor Kurt Georg Kiesinger, meeting in Bonn with Soviet Ambassador Semyon Tsarapkin, warned that any interference with the flow of industrial goods from West Berlin to West Germany would be "a serious violation" of standing Western rights.

Kiesinger conferred with U.S., British and French diplomats after seeing Tsarapkin. He instructed Foreign Minister Willy Brandt to keep President Nixon, who was in Paris, informed of developments.

The statement by the United States, Britain and France on the Berlin situation, following up President Nixon's renewal here Thursday of the U.S. commitment to keep the city free, reaffirmed their determination to maintain unhindered access.

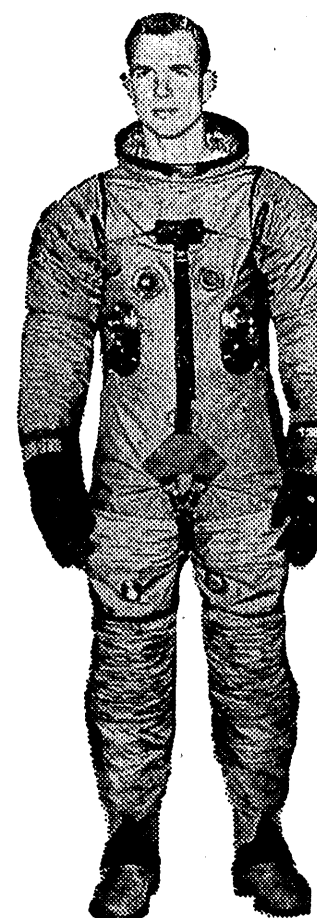

They expressed hope "that these Soviet charges are not intended to create international tensions."

Eisenhower Remains On Critical List

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower remained very weak and in serious condition Saturday. But the action of his closely watched heart continued stable.

He is fighting pneumonia while still in the critical period following risky surgery last Sunday to remove an intestinal blockage.

"Gen. Eisenhower rested well last night but still remains very weak," his doctors at Walter Reed Army Hospital said in a Saturday morning bulletin.

"The nasogastric tube (that was being used for oxygen therapy) was removed last night, and he is being given small amounts of liquids by mouth today.

Stages Coup

Syrian Marxists Ousted

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP) — Defense Minister Lt. Gen. Hafez Assad staged a bloodless coup Saturday and ousted extremist Marxist leaders of the ruling Baath party from the government and the party.

Highly authoritative sources reported that Assad, who is supported by the Syrian army chief of staff, Maj. Gen. Mustafa Tlass, intends to form a moderate left wing coalition war cabinet.

Another of his aims is reportedly to be reconciliation with a rival wing of the Baath party in power in Iraq and closer cooperation with all Arab states in their confrontation with Israel.

There has been no official announcement either of the coup or the impending change in government. But authoritative sources said an announcement is expected as soon as Assad concludes consultations over the weekend for the formation of a new cabinet.

There is no definite news of the fate of the ousted militant Marxist Baathists. According to one version they have been arrested and are to be flown out of the country. Another says they managed to go underground and are trying to organize support from civilian branches of the party throughout the country, especially the civilian youths of the Popular Army.

The ousted group is led by former party strongman Maj. Gen. Salah Jadid, former Foreign Minister Ibrahim Makhos and Col. Abdul Karim Jundi, who headed the national security bureau.

Informants said Assad, who is also chief of the Syrian army force which is believed loyal to him, also has the support of the army and the civilian Popular Army.

In contrast to the long line of Syrian coups—14 in the past 20 years—neither tanks nor armed troops were seen in the streets or on the country's highways. The whole countryside was in a festive mood as people in towns and villages celebrated the major Moslem holiday of Kurban Bairam. Most people appeared to have no inkling of the struggle for power in the capital as Damascus radio continued broadcasting holiday programs without mention of any change in the government.

A trip across the countryside from the Jordanian frontier through Damascus to the Lebanese border showed the festive atmosphere evident throughout the 120-mile route. Life also appeared normal in several army camps along the way. Flights of Syrian MIG fighters roared overhead constantly, but this has been going on since last Monday's Israeli air raid.

Monday's raid was one of the many reasons that persuaded Assad to stage his coup, informants said.

For Nixon, The Baptism Of Fire

The "honeymoon" granted incoming presidents has ended for Richard Nixon, at least in its international phase.

In Europe, students hounded him with demonstrations. They were inspired as much by a new wave of anti-Americanism generated by the Vietnam war as by the stereotyped European image of Nixon as an antiliberal, imperialistic hard-lining reactionary.

In Berlin, the Russians and East Germans are manufacturing another crisis in that island city, this time over the scheduled March meeting of the West German electoral college, in order to test, as they did with John F. Kennedy in 1961, the fiber of the new president and to probe the Atlantic alliance for signs of division.

Meanwhile, back on the Western Hemisphere ranch, Peru is the center of the thorniest problem an American president has had to face since Castro came to power in Cuba in 1959.

A Peruvian PT boat has fired on five American tuna boats, ramming and capturing one and bringing to some 125 the number of Yankee fishing vessels seized and fined by Peru, Ecuador and Chile in the past several years as those countries enforce, so far successfully, their claims to ownership of the Pacific Ocean as far out as 200 miles from their shores.

Peru, under a military dictatorship with strong left-wing elements, has also taken over a subsidiary of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, hints that other American firms may be expropriated and has signed its first trade accord with the Soviet Union.

The specter of Peru becoming the first government in South America to go Communist haunts the new President, and to dispel it he must thread a delicate course between a species of Tonkin Gulf response on the one hand, and on the other, any suggestion of willingness to acquiesce in having Uncle Sam's beard pulled by any and all.

Thus the man who calls himself not a half-worlder but a whole-worlder, who came to office with a sincere desire to launch a new era in world co-operation, finds himself immediately confronted on both sides of the Atlantic with serious challenges both to the validity of that vision and his ability to implement it.

President Nixon begins earning his pay.

Complexity On The Farm

Time was when farmers seeded the land with whatever crop there seemed to be a demand for, tilled the soil, prayed for rain, gathered the harvest in due time and went to market. The process has become a good deal more complex than that, as everyone knows. The extent of this complexity is not common knowledge, however.

It seems that the modern farmer should if possible be skilled in economic analysis as well as in persuading the land to yield bumper crops. Unless he applies economic theory to agricultural marketing problems, say the authors of a volume on the subject, "a farmer trying to figure out what he should plant at the most advantage to himself is like a man with imperfect eyesight shooting with an inaccurate rifle through a fog at an erratically jumping jackrabbit."

Those words occur in a new edition of "Marketing Farm Products," by two Iowa State University economists, Geoffrey S. Shepherd and Gene A. Futrell. They also offer this colorful picture of what goes on as between farmer and consumer:

"The United States is like a vast market hall, with hungry consumers at one end, shouting their orders for food and continually changing their minds about the prices they can afford to pay; and at the other end of the hall, harried producers dashing in and continually dumping varying kinds and quantities of goods for sale . . . All the elements of bedlam are here. Yet somehow the goods move through the market, producers get their money, and consumers get their foods."

And somehow, farmers—most of them—hang onto their sanity. One suspects there are times when they wish for the simpler days of planting, tilling and then hauling to market whatever resulted from their labors.

Up-Tight Nixon Gone; Color Him Relaxed Now

By NOEL GROVE
NEA Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON (NEA) — If there is a new Nixon, many observers here are thinking, the image was born after the campaign, not before or during. They marvel at the little humanistic traits surfacing in the White House that were buried in stiff smiles and mechanical words and gestures before the new President took office. Off-the-cuff Nixon jokes are becoming standard fare. Has "making it" relaxed him that much and thawed the programmed exterior of Nixon, the careful campaigner? Or does he partly succumb to temptation, since response to presidential humor is so automatic as to make Bob Hope green with envy?

Richard Nixon, veteran observers say, has never shown much dexterity for casual small talk with non-intimates, whether they be reporters or outstretched hands on the campaign trail. A classic example occurred one day in the Pierre Hotel in New York where Nixon had his headquarters in the interim between election and inauguration.

The President-elect encountered a Washington political reporter of his acquaintance in the hotel lobby as both of them were waiting for their separate elevators. The exchange went something like this, except that the name of the reporter is changed:

"Good morning, Mr. Nixon."
"Oh, good morning, James. (pause) Are you going upstairs?"

"Yes, I'm going upstairs."
(Uncomfortable pause.)
"Well, I'm going upstairs, too."

(Longer pause, and then Nixon's elevator arrives.)

"Well . . . see you upstairs."

Whether such an awkward exchange would happen with Nixon the President is open to discussion. Certainly in his public appearances the consensus is that he comes off much more genuine and relaxed than Dick Nixon, private citizen, or Nixon the candidate.

In a recent picture-taking session with staff members and their wives in the White House East Room, Nixon himself was arranging the group like a mother hen fussing over her brood. When all was arranged to his satisfaction, cameras clicked and then the President said to the staff personnel in mock sternness, "All right, back to work!" Everyone laughed.

"God, he thinks he's Art Linkletter!" exclaimed a newsman present, in mixed puzzlement and admiration. And, might one add, a sense of relief?

EVERY NEWCOMER to government is a change of government in a change of administrations must wonder at some time about the effectiveness of security measures. Especially when confronted by the bureaucracy of thousands of nameless but seemingly busy and functional faces.

The new administration might be reminded of the experience of Lincoln Gordon of Lyndon Johnson days, who in his early career as assistant secretary for Latin-American affairs called an interdepartmental meeting to review relations south of the border. It was his first call for such a gathering, which usually includes top regional desk men from State Department and a few people from Central Intelligence Agency, all capable of giving inside information on the situation.

Gordon was reportedly surprised, however, to see that a group of about 25 had assembled for the meeting. Deciding that the number was a bit unwieldy, he started going around the room asking people to identify themselves so he could pare the group down to size.

As identifications began, six men left without explanation.

SNOW BLOCKING DRIVEWAY DRAWS RESIDENT'S FIRE

Q. Every time the city snow plow comes down our street, the entrance to our driveway gets the cold shoulder—meaning another pile of snow for me to shovel. Is this legal?

A. It's perfectly legal for the city to block your driveway entrance with snow in the normal course of snow removal operations, provided the snow is deposited on city property, and this usually includes the sidewalk and property between the sidewalk and street.

The Global View

Nixon: A Stronger NATO Before Summit With Soviet

By LEON DENNEN
NEA Foreign News Analyst
UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (NEA) — President Nixon's journey to Europe is a diplomatic initiative that he hopes will lead to a summit meeting with Russia.

However, the President is too much a pragmatist to risk the peril of "instant summitry." He is not likely to repeat the error President Eisenhower made in 1955 when he went to Geneva to negotiate peace with the Russians while Moscow was accelerating the shipment of arms to the United Arab Republic.

By the time the "Spirit of Geneva" evaporated, Russia was well on the way to becoming a dominant power in the Middle East.

Nixon, obviously anxious to avoid such pitfalls, would like to have the firm backing of a united Europe before beginning the great debate with the Soviet Union. He wants to enhance his bargaining position by first strengthening the North Atlantic alliance.

The President also is playing for time since not even his favorite Kremlinologists really know who decides policy in Russia's ruling Politburo.

According to some Western intelligence reports, "softliners" like Premier Aleksei Kosygin and even the Politburo's veteran Mikhail Suslov are fighting for their political lives. They are ostensibly among the men who opposed Russia's invasion of Czechoslovakia.

Marshals, generals and hard-line Stalinists, who use Communist party chief Leonid Brezhnev as their puppet, are said to be reaching for more power.

Communist diplomats from East Europe even believe that Russia is heading toward a military ("Bonapartist") dictatorship. They describe Brezhnev as a mediocre politician whose main interest is to re-establish Soviet supremacy among Communists.

Like Stalin and even Lenin, he exploits Marxist-Leninist ideology as the czars once used Pan-Slavism to further Russia's imperialist aims.

The struggle for power in the Kremlin probably explains Moscow's conflicting policies. While the "doves" seek a detente with the NATO nations, the hard-liners—who invaded Czechoslovakia and got away with it—are again warming up the cold war in Berlin.

It also explains why Yugoslavia's President Tito and President Nicolae Ceausescu of Romania, who are certainly in a position to know what goes on in the Kremlin, remain suspicious of Russia's intentions.

The two independent-minded leaders of the Communist world made this clear in a blunt statement after their recent meeting on the Yugoslav-Romanian border. Their declaration criticized the Kremlin's "new" doctrine which claims for Russia the right to intervene in any country where Communist regimes seem threatened.

It also reaffirmed the principle long ago enunciated by Tito that a country has a right to develop communism in its own way without interference by Moscow.

The Yugoslavs especially accept the possibility of "unpredictable" and "irrational" acts by Soviet Russia. They see Brezhnev as the tool of trigger-happy Stalinists backed by the military.

The struggle between the "hawks" and "doves" may not bring immediate changes in the Politburo. But there is increasing evidence that the "collective leadership" in the Kremlin is experiencing a crisis of confidence. The diehard Stalinists are dissatisfied with the "weak" policies of Kosygin, the "cautious technocrat" and are pressing hard for his fall.

These are vital problems that Nixon must weigh carefully and explore with the NATO allies before embarking on another summit meeting with the Russians.

Ann Landers: Can't Car Date

Dear Ann Landers: Boys asked me for dates when I was 13½ but I was smart enough to know I was too young. When I was 14½ I felt ready to date but my folks didn't. I agreed to wait until I was 15.

My 15th birthday is next month and I already have five dates lined up. Now my folks say I can date but I can't CAR date. Most of the guys I know have driving permits or full licenses. To tell a fellow we have to go by a bus, or worse yet, ask his dad or my dad to drive us is horrible. I'd rather stay home.

Should a 15-year-old girl have to abide by such a dumb rule? —SUFFERING KITTEN

Dear Suff: A girl who has permission to date should be allowed to go in whatever kind of transportation a responsible fellow provides.

A decent girl will behave—car or no car.

Dear Ann Landers: Because our mother was strict, my sister decided to let her children have what she calls a "pleasant childhood." By this she means, allow them to run wild and act like animals. I hate to be the mean aunt and yell at them so I keep quiet.

They had dinner here Sunday. After they left I had to scrub the floor, clean the rug, wash the walls and, would you believe, there was food on the ceiling? I had to get a ladder and wash up there, too.

The boys are very destructive. I wouldn't leave them alone with the canary for a minute. Once I caught them as they were just about to throw the cat out of the second story window to see if cats always land on their feet.

I can't tell my sister to stay home till her kids grow up, yet whenever they leave I have two hours of cleaning up to do. Any advice?—NO LAUGHING MATTER

Dear No: My advice is be the "mean aunt." They won't dislike you. They'll respect you. Make it clear that they must behave in your house. Also, have some games on hand—coloring books, crayolas, things to keep them occupied. Bored kids are mischievous kids.

Dear Ann Landers: I want to protest in the name of people who do not smoke. I'm not an old fuddyduddy with high-top shoes. I'm 22 years old, I wear false eyelashes and I drive a red Impala.

My desk is located between two chain smokers. My clothes reek of smoke. My hair smells like I spent two weeks in a poker game. My eyes burn every night when I leave the office.

King James of England put it beautifully in the 17th century. He said, "Smoking is a custom loathsome to the eye, hateful to the nose, harmful to the brain, dangerous to the lungs, and in the black stinking fumes, thereof nearest resembling the horrible Stygian smoke of hell."

If you print this I'll bet thousands of people clip it and leave it for some miserable character to see.—SMOKE-HOUSE SECRETARY

Dear Sec: Here it is and I am going to leave a few copies around myself.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Controversial Director Raising 'Healthy Doubt'

By GRANVILLE WATTS
Associated Press Writer
LONDON (AP)—Roman Polanski, director of the controversial witchcraft film, "Rosemary's Baby," gave one of his long thoughtful looks and said:

ROMAN POLANSKI

"I have to disturb. I have to make people question themselves. . . .

Polanski, 35, said he thought the film, starring Mia Farrow, was "the perfect thriller."

The Polish-born director said he was handed the story as soon as he reached Hollywood.

"They said, 'Read it tonight.'"

I thought I'd read it the next morning. I was exhausted after a long journey. But I was curious to see what it was about. . . .

"I didn't stop reading it until 4 a.m. I found it thrilling and fascinating material for a film. Immediately I went to London and wrote a script and two months later we started production."

The action was typical of this small, energetic man with a quicksilver brain.

The film, which centers on a witchcraft cult in a New York apartment house, fits in nicely with Polanski's philosophy of shaking people out of rigid beliefs.

His favorite word in conversation seems to be "Why?" Friends are disconcerted by his habit of greeting statements of the obvious with the word.

"Some people don't even know the word 'why' exists," he snorted.

"Healthy doubt. That's what 'Rosemary's Baby' is about," he said. "The older I grow, the less certain I am of things. So I show people something so obviously impossible as witchcraft. And I say to them, 'Are you certain it is not true?' Very often, you know, we are the victims of illusion. Things are not always what they appear to be."

Polanski regards breaking taboos as a duty. "A taboo is the result of superstition, and that's a thing which causes the greatest unhappiness, and cruelty, in society," he said.

"Sex is a taboo. But the genesis of it is religion. What really fixes us is religion."

Polanski has two films lined up for Paramount—a Western called "The Donner Pass" in which cannibalism takes place and a film about Paganini, the Italian violinist.

Jay Garner Finds Fame In Satires

By WILLIAM GLOVER
AP Drama Writer
NEW YORK (AP)—In a Broadway season studded with super-actors, a newcomer is now earning cheers with some hi-fi mimicry.

He is Jay (for James) Garner, but don't mix him up with the hero of TV's "Maverick" and sundry cinemas. Each is 40, but Jay hails from Tennessee, the other from Oklahoma.

Since arriving at the Cort with the Theater Atlanta company in "Red, White and Maddox," a devastating political lampoon, Garner's availability for other assignments has been assiduously investigated by three major agencies.

"I'd like to stay; I make no bones about it," he expresses his change in attitude since last here 20 years ago as a six-month wonderkid who won a radio acting contest and $2,000.

"I feel that in the last three years I've grown more as a performer than in all the preceding period. That's the great thing about repertory across the country today—you get to play all kinds of roles."

In recognition of the rave reviews accorded Garner, producer Edward Padula elevated his name to star rank above the play title shortly after the production opened.

In the satire at the Cort, Garner does a vocal and visual impersonation of Georgia Gov. Lester Maddox with a mixture of deadly detail and sympathetic understanding.

"I met him, strangely as things turned out, on my first day at a radio reporting job," he says, "and I thought then, 'This is a strange little man who has great charm.'"

Garner's first phonetic plagiarism took place only a year ago, when he enacted former President Johnson in Barbara Garrison's lurid parody of classic drama and current events, "MacBird!"

"I've never had a voice lesson in my life," says Garner, "but voice people have all said that I have an excellent ear for picking up speech patterns and being able to reproduce them on a moment's notice."

The actor did a few modest acrobatics with his larynx while immersed from 1950 to 1956 in assorted assignments on radio and TV stations in Chattanooga and Atlanta.

"I guess the die was cast for me when I entered college," Garner says of his entertainment world career. School was the University of Tennessee at Knoxville where he helped support himself for two years by giving dance lessons.

At the university, Garner got involved in theatricals and took a year to tour with Robert Porterfield's Batner theater troupe out of Abingdon, Va.

By 1963 bachelor Garner moved down to Atlanta and landed with WGST.

After becoming established as program head of WGST, he did a bit of dabbling with the amateur theater enterprise that evolved into the professional Theater Atlanta.

When the decision was made in 1966 to make the big shift, Garner left the airlines to be the new venture's stage manager.

His biggest chance, in "MacBird!" resulted from a mid-rehearsal decision to replace the LBJ actor.

Spend Night Together

Red, Jane Research Parts

Jane Fonda

By DICK KLEINER
Hollywood Correspondent
HOLLYWOOD — (NEA) — Red Buttons made a date to spend the night with Jane Fonda.

Another juicy morsel of Hollywood gossip? No—this one is an example of how some actors take their jobs seriously.

Red and Jane are two of the stars of "They Shoot Horses, Don't They?" which ABC Pictures is soon to begin filming. This is from a book—written in 1931—which has become a near-classic in Europe but never made much noise here. It's a story of the marathon dancers of the early '30s.

Red and Jane play two marathon dancers. And they wanted to get a taste of the weariness those wacky waltzers felt. It was Red's idea to go all night long, and Jane eagerly joined him.

"We're just going to see how it feels," Red said. "We won't have any music. We'll just go on the set and dance—an hour and 50 minutes on, then a 10-minute break. That's the way the marathon dancers worked. I thought it would be a good idea and I called Jane. She's pretty hip, and she said she'd love to."

Buttons says this is, without a doubt, "my best shot since 'Sayonara.'" He plays a sailor, down on his luck, who tries the marathon for lack of anything better. He has dyed his hair silvery orange to look older.

I went with him to wardrobe, where he tried on his outfit. He had a sailor suit with a beat-up brown jacket to go over it. He thought the jacket should look older.

"We can age the jacket some more," the wardrobe man said. Red put everything on—making sure, first, that he had comfortable socks and shoes because he would be on his feet for days, and surveyed himself in the mirror.

"O.K.," he said, "if you get me some velour socks and put a few more years on the jacket."

Then he looked at himself and laughed.

"What a strange contrast," he said. "See this watch? It's an astronaut's watch. I'm one of only two or three people who have watches like this who aren't astronauts. And it looks funny to see it when I'm wearing this old World War I sailor suit."

Director Sydney Pollack showed me around the one set they have for the picture. The last time I saw Pollack was in Yugoslavia, where he was doing "Castle Keep." That one got in so much trouble from weather and fires and other disasters that he vowed his next picture would be in Hollywood.

"Isn't this a change from Yugoslavia?" he said. "I've come full circle—from all that over there down to one set here."

They had built a replica of the Aragon Ballroom as it was in 1932. The sleazy bleachers, the mock-gaudy chandeliers, the pitted floor—it all looked beautifully real.

"Want to see something really great?" Pollack asked, and led me off the main floor, to show me the dressing rooms and rest rooms. Everything was perfect—even the sinks were chipped, and the cots looked like the blankets hadn't been changed in six months.

Pollack had to go to the studio hospital for his physical. Before a picture begins, all the cast and crew must undergo medical exams. Gig Young, who plays the marathon dance MC, was already there. They both passed.

That's how it goes, just before they begin filming. The set is ready, the cast is ready, the crew is ready. All they need now is the starting signal.

Broadway Beckons Bolger Back

By WILLIAM GLOVER
AP Drama Writer
NEW YORK (AP)—Ray Bolger, that forever ambling whiz of showbiz, is taking a nonchalant glide into the over-65 bracket by coming back to Broadway.

"That age—it's just funny to me," he observes. "In our business it isn't any particular age at all. It's up to the individual."

There are two parts to his upbeat formula: Staying fit. "Weight-wise, I'm very sharp at 160"—and speaking out. If he talks about the march of time, native New England shrewdness advises, others are less apt to.

"I put it into my nightclub act a few weeks ago at the Waldorf," he grins, "and when the reviews came out, the psychology worked. All were about youthful, limber Ray Bolger."

Right now, his dance-comic-vocal skills are being switched from the "great joy" of solo performance to the "complex challenge" of starring in a large musical.

The show, "Come Summer," due for premiere March 11 at the Lunt-Fontanne Theater, has Bolger as a footloose Yankee peddler back in the early 19th century when mechanization was revolutionizing industry.

It wasn't until "On Your Toes" in 1936 that Bolger, already a star, ever took a professional lesson at the ballet bar. His whole career came about from a haphazard start and developed with a kind of accidental felicity and casual tact, Salvatore Ciccarelli—"He fitness. He kept meeting people because a successful truck farmer later"—who showed Ray Bolger ended studies at a simple buck-and-wing, then Dorchester, Mass., high school took him to meet Denny Healy, when he was 16—"we didn't have an ex-hoof turned watchman. have any money, that's all" he Bolger's next break was runs of his widower father and ending into Denia Rusakoff in the himself—and got a job in the hallway between Rusakoff's bank First National Bank of Boston. Let school and the ballroom sem-

He also took himself to O'Brien's School of Ballroom Dancing. "I told him I was an accountant, so he offered to give me a lesson. He said, 'If I keep his books.'"

"All I could do was the thesaurus if I'd keep his books," he reminisces, "and by then the future star was a when you can only do one dance clerk-at-large in the New England at that age it's an early good-lad Mutual Life Insurance office, an association that ended

While learning the two-step, abruptly when a manager decided that an employee who practiced terpsichore during errands hardly fit the firm image.

Bolger knew he'd never be happy in an office, did a weekend vaudeville turn to launch professionally at Taunton, Mass., and by 1921 was hired on as second comic with the Bob Ott Musical Comedy Repertoire company.

En route the eager fledgling picked up some impromptu guidance on how to project his voice—"that was before there were any microphones"—from one of the last survivors of the florid style of emoting.

Bolger got to Broadway in 1925 and hasn't had much time since to loll between stage, films, night clubs and TV assignments. In 1929 he married Gwendolyn Rickard and they've been together ever since.

Perhaps the two biggest events of his professional life were the musical "On Your Toes"—"we created something there with the 'Slaughter on Tenth Avenue' ballet"—and the film "The Wizard of Oz."

"Those annual playbacks on television are a very important factor in my ability to reach young audiences today as well as the middle-aged. It's a kind of immortality to have something that will go on after I'm gone."

Brynnner Playing Tito In World War II Film

BRIONI, Yugoslavia (AP)—An ambitious multimillion dollar movie, with an international cast, is filming in Yugoslavia, showing the battle of Yugoslav partisans led by then-Marshall Tito who routed superior German forces at the River Neretva during World War II.

President Josip Broz Tito received American film star Yul Brynner and a large group of foreign and Yugoslav actors working in the film, "The Battle of Neretva," on his secluded island here.

In addition to Brynner, the international cast includes Sergei Bondarchuk, Oleg Vidov, Anthon ny Davis, Curt Jurgens, Hardy Kruger, Franco Nero, Orson Welles and Sylva Koscina.

The reception with Tito was attended by Brynner, Koscina, Nero, Vidov and Kruger, as well as Oliver Unger, president of the producing Commonwealth United Co., Antonio Muzu, director of the film company I.F.C. of Rome, Karol Helman, president of the Omnia Film Co. of Munich and others who are involved with the film.

The group was introduced to Tito by Veljko Bulajic, director of the film.

Tito spent nearly three hours with his guests, discussing the film, problems of art and other subjects, and later entertained them for dinner.

Tito said he believed the major coproduction "will open the gates of future Yugoslav coproduction to the whole world."

And he joked: "It took us only two days to blow up and rebuild the bridge over the River Neretva; it has taken our friends at Commonwealth United over two years to do the same job."

FILMED IN ISRAEL

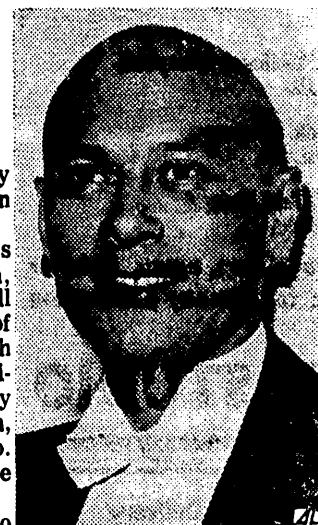

TEL AVIV (AP)—Hollywood producer Joseph E. Levine announced recently he has chosen Israel as the location for his next film, "The Slave" based on a novel by Isaac Bashevis Singer.

Levine told newsmen he hopes Peter O'Toole, Paul Newman and Julie Christie will take leading parts and will try to use Israelis in supporting roles.

The six to $8 million epic is to be directed by Jules Dassin, who is touring the country with Levine looking for sites.

The film is the story of a Jew whose family is killed in a 15th century Polish pogrom and who is sold as a slave.

REITHER

on Beardstown

By Virgil Reither

BEARDSTOWN — Roberts Mann of Chicago was a cousin of the late Clarence Mann, local property owner, and well known in this city as well as in Chicago as a naturalist.

Roberts and Clarence were "just like brothers" according to Mrs. Clarence Mann of Beardstown. And they had wide interests in common.

Roberts Mann has contributed to the Chicago Tribune on many occasions, and has done other writing "on the side" both before and since his retirement after 35 years with the Forest Preserve.

He is now 78 and says he is "restless" in retirement.

"My wife and I take long trips through spectacular parts of the United States and Canada," he states "and at home I take long walks."

"Meanwhile I study the birds that flock to our feeding tray." Since Friday's six-inch snowfall in Beardstown it is a timely occasion to tell of Mr. Mann's "bird life."

He cites the woodpeckers as of particular interest.

"This winter," he writes, "we have no flickers but there is a zebra—or red bellied woodpecker. That scamp pays no attention to the suet holder at one end of the tray. He goes to a hunk of white cake and gobbles that up for a meal. Strange."

A pair of hairy woodpeckers also caught Mr. Mann's attention.

"For 20 years I have claimed the 'hairs' were the most scary, wary birds in the woodlands. You had to be as still as a mouse when they came—rarely—to the feeding tray."

"Not so in 1969! They are among our most ardent customers and pay little attention to you as they grab big meals of suet."

"I am now convinced that there are two races of downy woodpeckers. One is a third larger than the other. One is brightly marked; the other is so faintly marked that it appears dingy. Apparently, however, they interbreed. How about that, bird feeders?"

Potpourri: The traveling John Ganos, 1113 Washington street, returned home the night of Feb. 27 during the big (really) snow.

They were back from South America—their second trip. John said he wasn't sure if they came home too early or too late.

The Otto Stinsons and Francis Jacksons have joined the many Beardstownians vacationing in Florida.

From the Central Illinoisian 100 years ago: Another transfer of real estate is that of William Hagener having purchased two lots in front of George Kuhl's residence for $75 and William is going to build a house on them, and then, we expect, make an announcement.

The pickets at Oscar Mayer, some from out of town, are walking the beat night and day.

Gregg Davidsmeyer has been hospitalized due to injury in a basketball game.

Note to Mrs. John Sims of Athens, T.E. McCullough of Chandlerville, Mrs. Art Jones of Beardstown, et al who made inquiry of how Mrs. Nancy Hanks Hamm could be the great great granddaughter of THE Nancy Hanks! Would you all accept great great grand niece?? and my thanks as well.

Boon Nall, 78, Retired Postal Employee, Dies

Boon Nall, 78 of 117 N. Prairie died at 9:30 p.m. Saturday at Norris hospital where he had been a patient since Dec. 24.

He was born Feb. 27, 1891 in Morgan County, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Nall. He was married to the former Vada Smith in Morgan County Jan. 15, 1919 and the couple celebrated their golden wedding anniversary recently.

He leaves his wife, two daughters, Vera, wife of George Wilkerson of Topeka, Kan. and Frances, wife of Dale Bourn of Plainfield; one brother, Albert Nall of Ashland; seven grandchildren and one great-granddaughter.

He was preceded in death by four sisters.

Mr. Nall, a former Jacksonville postal employee, retired in 1958. He was a member of Centenary Methodist church, a veteran of World War One and a member of American Legion Post 279.

Funeral services will be held at Gilham-Buchanan Funeral Home at 2 p.m. Tuesday, Reverend Donald Batz officiating. Burial will be in Memorial Lawn cemetery.

The family will meet friends at the funeral home from 7-9 p.m. Monday.

Those who wish may consider memorials to the Centenary United Methodist Church.

The remains are at the Ward Funeral Home here where services will be held at 2 p.m. today with Rev. William Shotts officiating. Interment will be in Long cemetery in the Bellevue area.

Mr. Woodard was born Feb. 12, 1880, in the area where he died. His parents were John S. and Mary Ann Sternes Woodard. He was married to Hattie Pearl McIntyre and she is deceased.

These children survive: George and John of Nebo; Roy and Mary at home; Mrs. Nora Swearingin, Nebo, and Mrs. Edna Ruble, Pittsfield. There are 14 grandchildren and 12 great grandchildren.

The deceased was a member of the Church of Christ.

Elmer Adams Dies, Rites Set At Mt. Sterling

MT. STERLING — Elmer Adams, 71, a retired automobile salesman, died at 7:20 a.m. Saturday at the Dirksen Nursing Home in Springfield.

Born in Cooperstown township Jan. 14, 1899, he was the son of George and Julia Malory Adams. He was married Feb. 16, 1916 to the former Blanche Drake, who survives with one son, Robert of Mt. Sterling.

Also surviving are two brothers, George and Dwight, both of Mt. Sterling and three sisters: Mrs. Ida Underwood of Mt. Sterling, Mrs. Susan Thomas, Versailles and Mrs. Agnes Evans of Canton.

Services are scheduled at Rounds-Sadler Funeral Chapel at 2 p.m. Monday, Reverend John Hepp officiating. Burial will be in Mt. Sterling City cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home after 4 p.m. Sunday.

Continue Shoplifting Case In Cass

BEARDSTOWN — Associate Circuit Judge Fred W. Reither Friday continued until March 5 a case involving charges against two local girls for shoplifting.

The girls allegedly committed the act at the Value Plus Pharmacy, where similar incidents had been reported previously.

Sam Sipes was fined $35 on charges of speeding.

Board Meets

The regular school board meeting was held Thursday when a decision to give members of the coaching staff raises in salary of $200, and to increase by 5 percent the pay of non-certified employees.

Coach Davis suggested a summer sports program at local schools, and there was a discussion on heating problems, with two CIPS representatives taking part.

Reports on tubercular tests were made with announcement of several reactors who will submit to further tests.

The usual finance reports were read and approved.

DIVORCES GRANTED IN CIRCUIT COURT

Mrs. Henderson, the former Janet Jones of Roodhouse, grew up in Roodhouse and Mrs. Strang, formerly of her, resided in Roodhouse at the same time.

Friends here have been notified of the death of Joseph Rockenbach, 58, former assistant athletic coach in the Roodhouse High School. He also served as athletic coach at White Hall. Mr. Rockenbach recently served as athletic director and head basketball coach at Rochester State Junior College and guided hundreds of the city's young athletes over a period of 23 years.

Funeral services were conducted at St. Pius X Catholic church in Rochester.

Simon To Be Featured At Elks Banquet

BEARDSTOWN — The Beardstown Elks are planning their second annual Americanism meeting and banquet, with members of the senior class of the high school as special guests.

Lt. Gov. Paul Simon has agreed to be the principal speaker on this occasion at the high school cafeteria at 6:30 p.m. March 10.

Parents and friends of the seniors may also attend and tickets are available.

Lt. Gov. Simon's latest formal visit in Beardstown was during the November campaign, but he has been here to visit friends since then.

Board Candidates

The first to file as a candidate for the school board is William G. Fischer who will seek re-election.

The terms of Board President Harold Kuhlmann and Bob Huss also expire. Huss says he will not seek re-election.

The election will be held Saturday, April 12, and first day for filing was last Wednesday.

The board is made up of four members from Beardstown township and three from outside the township.

Mr. Fischer represents the area outside Beardstown, as does Mr. Kuhlmann. Mr. Huss was the Beardstown member.

Friends may call at the funeral home after 4 p.m. Sunday.

MANCHESTER HAS 4 ON VOLUNTEER TRIP FOR FINDLEY

MANCHESTER — Brad Bell, Sandy Sifton and Mrs. Albert Powers, all of Manchester, were the guests of J. Stanley Weiss of Manchester on the Volunteers for Paul Findley Tour of Washington, D.C., Sunday and Monday, February 23 and 24.

The trip was in honor of Brad's and Sandy's birthdays. Brad was 13 on Monday, February 24, and Sandy will be 14 on March 15. Mrs. Powers, president of Manchester Women's Republican club and Junior class teacher at the Manchester United Methodist church, is an ardent worker of Congressman Findley.

Many opportunities were given the group to have a close look at places of national interest and to talk with high government officials. There were 157 persons on the tour.

The group sang Happy Birthday to Brad on the White House steps and at the banquet Monday evening.

Brad spoke Tuesday to the Manchester United Methodist Youth Fellowship and he and Sandy told of the trip Wednesday to their seventh and eighth grade classes.

Price-What Farmers Must Get Soon, Or All U.S.A. Suffers

More than 200 persons, most of them National Farm Organization (NFO) members farming in Pike, Morgan, Scott, Greene and Calhoun counties, attended a dinner at the Blackhawk restaurant Thursday evening and heard Erhart Pfingsten, NFO vice president, discuss the woes of agriculture today and how they can be remedied.

Pfingsten, Sergeants Bluff, Iowa, corn and hog producer, asserted "price is the only solution. There is no other. Without a fair price all farmers, regardless of size or efficiency, will go down the drain, and will take with them business and labor. The current trend will eventually destroy America."

Pfingsten, NFO vice president since 1963, is the most sought after speaker in the organization. He addresses five to seven assemblies each week, making connections by small plane, and is one of today's few speakers who combines direct approach, sarcasm, ridicule, humor and admonition to hold the attention of an audience for an hour and a half.

Can't Be Done
"It is utter impossibility for business or labor to operate on the basis of 15 years ago, yet farmers are trying to do it at prices a third lower. This can't be done."

"In 1947 the returns to the men and women who fed and clothed the nation amounted to less than three percent on capital investment, with nothing for labor. Moonlighting members of the farm families earned $10.7 billions, or $2.7 billions more than their relatives who worked at home."

"In 1951 farmers were receiving relatively fair prices. And they bought what they wanted and needed. Much of that business is shot. In 1967 a thousand trainloads of new tractors weren't made because farmers lacked the money to buy them. Think what this means to business, to rubber, to steel, to labor!"

He asserted that "we got in this mess because of price, because the marketing system has failed utterly and completely."

"Demand and supply can't work unless producer and buyer meet on equal terms. Today's livestock market is dominated by chain stores, because they sell 85 percent of the meat. The market is absolutely controlled by five chains; really by two, at prices predetermined weeks before."

The speaker said there is no point in trying for improvement "by getting bigger and more efficient. Twice nothing is still nothing. I know this is so because I ran it through a computer two times and got the same answer. If one man had all the farms in 1967 and paid minimum wages, he'd lost 14 billion dollars. In 20 years we have eliminated half of the farmers and tripled production per man hour, but we are the most inefficient slob in the world when it comes to marketing."

NFO Aims

He explained the NFO program as:

1. Farmers must set price in relation to cost of production.
2. Sell on contract signed at least a year ahead, and then produce to fill the contract.
3. Supply the market at full

AN ENTHUSIASTIC GROUP of NFO members in this area turned out Thursday evening to hear Erhart Pfingsten, national vice chairman, at the Blackhawk restaurant.

Seated are Pfingsten, of Sergeants Bluff, Iowa; Larry Goodson of Knox City, Mo., NFO commodity department employee, and Dale Nass of Plymouth, also of the commodity staff who served as master of ceremonies during the evening.

Standing are Bernard Stenemeyer, southeast of Alexander, president of Morgan County NFO, and Edgar Robinson, also of Alexander, immediate past president and current vice president of the county organization.

fair price, but not a pound extra at a lower price. Goals would be set at higher than expected needs to allow for weather, disease and insects, but any excess production "must be isolated from the market."

"In the past 11 years feed grain production has been only 3 percent in excess of demand, yet that 3 percent has driven down the price more than 33 percent."

Growth Cited

He said, "NFO is now organized in 46 states and will be in 48 by the time the flow goes in the ground. We're ready for business under existing laws. We don't need any of the so-called 'enabling legislation' that you've heard about and will hear a great deal more of."

He chided his auditors because some of them disliked "any holding action" or because they say they don't understand "how collective bargaining works."

"You should understand holding action. Ask your banker to lend you some money at 5 percent. Tell the service station owner to gas up your truck at 25 cents a gallon. Put 7 cents in a coke machine and see what happens. It will demonstrate true holding action. Surely a farmer ought to be as smart as a coke machine."

"As for not understanding collective bargaining, all of you use herbicides. You don't know how it's formulated or how it works, but you've found out that it works."

"And NFO is working today in a limited but effective way. Fifteen months ago agricultural economists and forecasters were predicting $14 hogs and 80-cent corn. That this didn't happen may be largely credited NFO. Every farmer in the land can thank his NFO neighbor for his role in strengthening the market."

Thursday night's visitors to the city were greeted by Mayor Byron Holkenbrink and Robert A. Hamm, Chamber of Commerce president, and State Representative Jerry Corbett of Hardin expressed his best wishes.

Agriculture Graduates—What Are They Doing?

A recent survey of 1963 University of Illinois College of Agriculture graduates indicates that average annual salary equals $10,380, some alumni earn more than $20,000 per year and that only 18 persons now farm.

W. K. Wessels, U. of I. assistant dean of agriculture, who conducted the survey, said 139 graduates or 77 percent of the class responded to the questionnaire.

Of the respondents, 39 percent are working in agricultural business and industry; 15 percent in education work; 13 percent in farming; 10 percent in professional agricultural employment; nine percent in graduate school; eight percent in military service; and six percent in nonagricultural employment.

In Allied Fields
Of the 54 graduates in business and industry, ten deal with farm supplies, fertilizers and chemicals. Nine are in credit and finance and six are in farm equipment industry. The rest represent the food, feed, seed, grain and meat industries and agricultural organizations.

The 54 reported salaries ranging from $6,500 to $25,000 with the average being $10,690 Wessels said.

Twenty-one said they were in educational work with seven teaching agriculture at the high school level, five teaching in junior colleges and four teaching at the college level. The rest are in research and the Cooperative Extension Service. One reported he was a school superintendent. Salaries ranged from $7,200 to $13,080 with the average being $9,884.

The 13 Percent Who Farm
Those listing farming as their occupation reported farm size from 40 to 1,160 acres with the average being 570. Average adjusted net income was $9,037 per year, Wessels said.

Fourteen persons listed their profession as agriculture workers. Their jobs included USDA and forest service, veterinarian, editor, foreign government, research assistant, attorney and landscape architect. Salaries ranged from $7,300 to $13,200 with the average salary being $9,789.

Eleven persons surveyed are in the military service. 13 are doing graduate work and eight have nonagricultural employment, Wessels said.

Of the 139 who responded to the survey, nine had earned the Ph.D. degree, two the LL.B. degree, one a DVM degree and 27 had received the master's degree.

May Take New Look At Rural Sections

By DON KENDALL
AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A visitor to the Agriculture Department last week, asked if he had been offered a job in the Nixon Administration, told a newsmen he would rather continue living in Iowa.

"This isn't for me," the man said. "I'm a farmer, a small-town boy. That's the only place to live."

According to surveys, many city dwellers share the Iowa's back-to-the-farm view. And while Secretary of Agriculture Clifford M. Hardin hasn't drawn the line as firmly, he does believe rural America has much to offer the urban population tide of the future.

Look To County

After only six weeks in office, it seems clear that Republican leaders will push rural development as an answer to the growing perplexities of the cities, and that Hardin will be a top spokesman.

If the experts are correct, Hardin told a group recently, the United States will have another 100 million or so people 30 years from now.

"Where are they going to live?" Hardin asked. "Are they going into the Chicago and New York and Los Angeles in the same percentages and proportions and ratios that they are now?"

"Or indeed are we going to develop new growth points throughout America in our smaller cities, in our county print for rural development may have a built-in advantage of considerable importance to whatever congressional support is sought for future programs.

Simply this is a subtle, perhaps subconscious attitude among even the most ardent city dwellers that, as the Iowa said, they would actually prefer living elsewhere.

The National Rural Electric Cooperative Association, in a survey published recently, concluded that 82 per cent of the 1,400 persons interviewed—two-thirds urban—would rather live in small towns or other rural areas.

Soybean Self-Assessment Plan At Half-Way Mark

HUDSON, Ia.—Aroused soybean growers, starting from scratch in late August 1968, have collected well over $50,000 toward launching a program of accelerated worldwide soybean and soybean product market development and maintenance.

The bulk of the funds—$38,000—have come from voluntary 1/2 cent-per-bushel self-assessments by growers on 1968 soybean sales. Agri-business has contributed the remainder.

A first-year goal of $100,000 was set by growers at the American Soybean Assn. annual meeting in New Orleans last August. The halfway point was reached in just over five months.

Individual grower checks have ranged from under one dollar to over $1,500. Self-assessments have come from growers in 27 different states. The leaders are Illinois, Arkansas, Mississippi, Iowa, Missouri, Louisiana and Ohio.

The ASA recently opened a new regional office in West Memphis, Ark., and also hired full-time fieldmen jointly with both the Arkansas Soybean Assn. and the Land of Lincoln Soybean Assn. in Illinois.

The growers' program calls for each state to pursue self-assessment collections in the manner best suited to the region with ASA to coordinate a national united effort.

Leaders predict self-help legislation will be approved in several states. Louisiana legislators have passed a 1/2 cent soybean checkoff bill and a referendum vote is scheduled within the next six weeks. Passage requires a "yes" vote from two-thirds of the growers voting.

A referendum vote in South Carolina is expected to be taken before planting time. Several other states are considering legislation.

Illinois Farm OUTLOOK

HOW MUCH BEEF FOR 1969?

The question of how much beef farmers will produce this year is an important one for many farmers and ranchers, since they receive about $10 billion a year from the sale of cattle and calves. Beef production in 1969 may be less than what seemed likely earlier, in view of figures recently compiled by the USDA.

The Department's report "Livestock and Poultry Inventory, January 1" shows only about 1 percent more cattle on farms and ranches than at the beginning of 1968. Small increases in the number of beef cattle were nearly offset by reductions in the number of dairy cattle.

The total of all cattle and calves was listed at 109,661,000—0.5 percent more than a year earlier. The number of beef cattle was 88,051,000—1 percent more than last year. The number of dairy cattle was shown as 21,610,000—about 3 percent less than at the first of 1968.

Accuracy of the report. Farmers often ask about the accuracy of these figures. They are, of course, only estimates—not actual counts. But the estimates are made by experienced, conscientious statisticians using scientific methods. The estimates are based largely on questionnaires mailed to and returned by farmer reporters.

We would plan on the estimates for cattle being accurate within 1 percent. The actual figures might be off a little more than 1 percent, but the change from the previous year, which is the most important thing, is probably accurate within 1 percent.

Steers, heifers, and calves. The number of steers on hand January 1 was estimated at 12,823,000—up not quite 1 percent from a year before. The number of beef heifers was listed at 9,303,000—the same as last year. The number of calves (not being kept for milking) was estimated at 27,920,000—up a little more than 1 percent.

The number of steers and beef heifers and calves combined totaled 50,046,000—up 1 percent from the previous year. At the same time (January 1), the number of cattle on feed was estimated at 12,579,000—10 percent more than last year.

Supply for replacements. How many cattle did that leave outside of feedlots—to be put into feedlots later this year and in 1970? We can get one answer to this question by adding the number of steers and beef heifers and calves on hand, then subtracting the number of cattle in feedlots. Doing this shows that the number of steers, heifers, and calves not on feed January 1 was around 37.5 million—2 percent less than a year earlier.

Conclusions. What useful conclusions can we draw from these figures? What can cattle feeders expect during the remainder of 1969 and in 1970?

1. Marketings of fed cattle may exceed 1968 levels by around 5 percent during the

State Warns Against 'Hybrid' Soybeans

SPRINGFIELD—Illinois grain farmers are warned to beware of the purchase of "hybrid" soybean seed. John W. Lewis, director of the Department of Agriculture, said no legal commercial product of this type is now available.

Lewis said his office and the state seed laboratory have received numerous inquiries concerning some recent offerings of soybean seed.

"It is in violation of the Illinois Seed Law," Lewis explained, "to offer in this state soybean seed that is represented or suggested as being hybrid." The seed law is a truth-in-labeling regulation, and suspected violations should be reported to the state seed laboratory, he added.

Private Brands The laboratory is operated by the agriculture department's Division of Plant Industry. Lewis disclosed the division has learned "some salesmen of private brands are offering soybean seeds for sale at fancy prices and representing them as hybrids. Farmers are being told the seed produced from them cannot be used the next year."

"The truth is," Lewis continued, "that these 'hybrid' offerings can produce as good a crop the second year as the first." Some of the seeds were offered at more than $12 per bushel. The normal price of soybean seed is approximately $4.25 a bushel.

"Research workers have made small amounts of hybrid first half of this year.

2. The number of cattle available for replacements probably is no greater than the figure for last year.

3. Since feedlot capacity is considerably larger than it was a year ago, there will be a strong demand for the limited supply of cattle that is available for feeding. Prices will be higher than in 1968—if the market for finished cattle holds up.

4. The next 90 days will be a critical testing time for the fat cattle market. If we get through this period without a large price decline, prices should hold fairly steady during the summer and fall.

Nuts On Wheels

A hundred years ago this part of the globe "was enjoying a new sensation" — velocipede riding. And Jacksonville boasted of something Quincy, Springfield and Peoria didn't have — to wit, a velocipedist's school and riding hall.

It is stated that at the time there was only one other such in the state, in Chicago.

A Prof. Grover, who hailed from some unrecorded spot, came to Jacksonville late in February, 1869, and took up quarters on the third floor of the brand new Ayers Block on West State street. In later days it was known as the Briggs building and was torn down to make way for the drive-in banking facilities of the Farmers bank.

The Prof. brought six of the "fractious critters" with him and it is said that he was a very competent repairman and managed to keep four of them ready for riders most of the time. They were made of wood and busted up pretty easily. They had wheels of equal size, but the nuts were not long satisfied with this and soon the front wheel was made considerably larger than the rear wheel until ten years later a popular model had a front wheel with a diameter of eight feet and a rear wheel of only that many inches.

Fragile Vehicles The first velocipedes sold for $40 to $80 and the Prof. did a pretty good business for about six weeks here. He charged 25 cents admission for spectators, novices paid $1 for a 30 minute lesson and practice session and those who learned to handle the "wooden steed" paid 50 cents for 30 minutes of riding around the hall.

This soon became a little stale so Prof. Grover put up a ramp and decline along one side of the hall so the rider could get a roller coaster thrill of his own making.

In that period people liked to bet and would wager on anything, so it wasn't long until Saturday night races were "all the rage." A ring around the hall measured 164 feet in circumference, hence 32 times round made a mile. The house put up a $5 prize, contestants had to pay $1 to enter, the place was jammed by paying spectators and "currency and greenbacks traded hands with celerity and in volume."

Earlier Lyman Beecher Glover noted in the JOURNAL:

The velocipede mania continues to thrive in this city, though any outside proficiency on the part of adepts is impossible on account of the superabundance of mud. The rolling of the bicycle can be heard at anytime of the day or evening by those who pass Ayers' new building. Saturday evening was a grand gala occasion at that popular resort for the young men of the city.

A large number of spectators witnessed the evolutions of several who are attempting to train the stubborn little wooden animal. The display of skill was very creditable.

The tenants in the new building complained about the racket going on and it was rumored that Prof. Grover and his wheels would have to go, but this was smoothed over somehow and he announced "a prize contest among the velocipedists" the following Saturday night.

Here's the report on that stirring event: VELOCIPED RACE — A large number of our citizens assembled in Prof. Glover's velocipede hall on Saturday night to witness the contest for the five-dollar prize to be given to the best rider.

Ben Anderson led off beautifully, making thirty-two times round the hall in five minutes and twenty-six seconds.

Wm. Emhuft, whose turn came next, mounted the wooden beast and came in grandly on the home-stretch, making the requisite number of rounds in five minutes and forty-five seconds.

Harry Armstrong, who won the prize amidst deafening applause, made the trip in five minutes and twenty-four seconds.

Ed. Simms, the fourth and last rider, handled the fractious critter with commendable skill, and came in snorting on the last round — time, five minutes and fifty seconds.

No bickering was heard and Judges B. Pyatt, A. Hocking and Mr. Lacey declared Armstrong the victor.

The $5 prize wasn't enough to satisfy the sports who wanted action so after the regular race the following Saturday night there was a special race with extra money and Harry Armstrong lost his crown, and probably a few bucks:

A second race came off at velocipede hall last Saturday night between Anderson and Armstrong, for a purse of twenty dollars. Armstrong fell on the last round. His time for thirty-one rounds was 5:13. Anderson's time for the thirty-two laps was 5:18.

Jacksonville got quite a bit of publicity through a story which the JOURNAL printed March 22, 1869, which told of a thrilling exploit by James Dunlap, who was by then quite an adept with the wheels. It was submitted by SPECTATOR, who started out his long piece by saying that he had heard several versions of the event, and that he, as an eye-witness, wished to set the record straight. Glover noted in another column:

A STARTLING OCCURRENCE: We print a communication signed "Spectator" in this morning's paper, which describes a most startling happening. It is another instance of fiction being stronger than truth.

The writer backed and filled for several paragraphs getting to the thrilling story. He told how Prof. Grover and his assistants were cleaning up the hall and had moved the ramp from the south side of the hall to the east side. "so the highest part of the incline rested on the sill of the opened window. Dunlap circled the hall and everybody presumed he had noticed the change of position, but"

As soon as he got the velocipede up to full speed, he went straight for the incline, up he went like a bird, and did not discover his mistake until it was too late. Away he went, through the window, like a flash, and disappeared. All stood spell-bound, for a second, and then rushed to the windows, expecting to see his mangled body on the ground below; but he was not "born to die" in that way, for the speed at which he was going carried him across the alley, ten feet wide, and he alighted "right side up" on Carter, Beesley & Co.'s drug store, a two story building with a very steep roof, down their roof, and over the edge he went, sailing on the roof of Ayers' bank, where he managed to fall off his machine in time to save himself from going over to the ground. He sprang to his feet, swung his hat and gave three cheers, which were responded to with a will by the excited crowd, which filled all the windows of the hall, and had watched his exit through the window with silent horror.

Mr. Dunlap thinks he is entitled to the champion medal as the most daring velocipede rider in this section of the country.

It seems that Prof. Grover packed up his wheels and moved to Peoria early in April. By that time many newspapers had picked up the story of Dunlap's thrilling ride, for people were interested in the new-fangled contraption called a velocipede, and anything pertaining to it was hot copy, Glover commented:

THAT WONDERFUL RIDE — The exciting ride made upon a velocipede by a young gentleman in this city, a short time since, has been copied into nearly all the newspapers in the state. Jacksonville is truly ahead in the velocipede business.

It seems that interest lapsed, for the county fair board was disappointed that no velocipedist showed up in October to compete for the special $15 premium they offered for a mile race. The folks who had come to the fair that day especially to see the race got sore because it wasn't run as advertised in the fair catalog and they complained bitterly of being "sold again."

NEA Head Seeks To Raise Teachers' Status, Salary

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — George D. Fischer, the new president of the National Education Association wants to play an old game with a new twist. The game is power politics and the goal is better education.

NEA's claim to national fame is that it is the largest research organization in the world. Fishers says that's fine. But he doesn't think it is really politically powerful enough to represent 800,000 teachers and 300,000 other educators who are NEA members.

At 43, the former Iowa vocational high school teacher has a youthful style of dress and speech that hardly fits the mold of a lobbyist, which he expects to be for the next 18 months.

His ideas on education reflect the problems in the field: for instance, teacher salary and status in the community. He said the starting salary for a teacher in the public schools should be $10,500 and with a top of $21,000.

Nationally, he said, teachers average $7,908; by contrast the average salary in the southeastern United States is $6,802.

"Teachers," he commented, "are second-class citizens."

And that is one reason why he said schools today have the "same place as medicine at the turn of the century. Schools today are like Albert Schweitzer's hospital in Africa—understaffed and over-worked."

"The teacher today is like the doctor was in the country town. But a doctor sees 20 people a day today. The teacher sees 20 an hour."

Decentralization
Fischer said that decentralization is finally coming of age. "We've suffered under a misconception—that because a school district is more efficient, it run financially from one office... then it is also more efficient educationally," he said. He noted that the two notions are not compatible. The best-run system is when the school is nearest the home, the family and the child.

Fischer said the underlying cause of the Watts riot started over the problems at Manual Arts High. He said many poor Negro parents think that the school is against them, and not really helping their children to get a better education.

They believe, he stated, that the school is part of the white establishment which is keeping them down.

"Take the authority away from the central office and give part of it back to the teachers and the parents," he said, and they will have a greater say in insuring that the child's needs are being fulfilled.

Teacher Rights
Fischer said the teacher wants a greater voice in the running of a classroom and in the functioning of his society.

Consequently, he said, they should have the right to participate and be involved in political activities, without being subject to the whims of school board or policy pressures.

The NEA is party to several teacher suits against school boards that have banned such activity or have taken reprisals against politically involved instructors.

But the words "teacher strike" make Fischer bristle. He rates such action at the bottom of the list of usable weapons in defense of teacher rights.

However, the American Federation of Teachers, a rival to the NEA which has been unionizing classroom instructors, places a high priority on strikes. Fischer said the AFT has made several overtures to the NEA on the possibility of merging. Fischer likes the politically potent concept of giving teachers "one voice," though he is taking a wait-and-see approach on the matter of merger.

South looked over his hand happily while waiting for the bidding to come around to him. He didn't have the biggest hand he had ever seen but it was good enough.

His dreams of luxury were interrupted when East opened with three clubs.

South didn't know just what to do. A four-club cue bid would surely produce a lot of spade or heart action from his partner. South finally decided to bid six diamonds and hope for the best.

If West had opened a club South would have had no problem in the play but West had a natural heart lead and made it.

South wasn't at all upset. He won that first trick and played his ace of trumps. West discarded the three of clubs and suddenly South had a real problem.

He could go right after spades and try to discard his four of hearts on dummy's queen but that play would only work if East held three or more spades.

Suppose East did hold three spades? He had played one heart and had shown up with four diamonds. If he had three spades he could only hold five clubs. Would East have tried a vulnerable three-club bid with a five-card suit?

South decided that East wasn't nuts and would have more than five clubs. Then how could South make his contract?

After awhile South figured out that there was one way. East couldn't have many hearts. Maybe that three of hearts was a singleton. Some chance is better than none. South played king and jack of trumps. East was in with the queen and could find no better lead than a club. South won, drew East's last trump and claimed his contract.

Genetic make-up of the U.S. Negro has been evaluated at approximately one-third white, according to the Encyclopaedia Britannica.

Today the cinema field of moving images for motion pictures, television, expositions and exhibitions is an entirely new "ball game" using advanced filming techniques, special optical printing machines and mixed media visualizations.

It burst with startling impact at Montreal's Expo 67 where screen images were used to generate creative concepts in the minds of viewers. You may recall the fragmentation of images on one large screen or several screens in juxtaposition—as in "Labyrinth"—and the exciting visual adventure of a multitude of image-bearing surfaces as in the Czech pavilion.

Evidence that this exciting new language of audio-visual communication is also artistic was provided recently at the Museum of Modern Art in New York. The museum held a showing of "Optical Screen Effects," which proved so popular that a repeat screening had to be scheduled to take care of the overflow crowd.

The special results—called opticals—can be aesthetic, dramatic or informative and can be used in films for entertainment, education or industry. Excerpts from well-known movies, artistic experiments, television series and commercials were shown in which the special effects were employed.

One film demonstrated how some of the effects are achieved via the Berkey-Oxberry Optical Printer. It's a complicated machine which uses multiple mirrors and beam-splitting prisms to produce electronic and optical magic on each film frame.

"These films illustrate the solutions to optical problems and at the same time show both technical and artistic skill," Margareta Akermarck, Associate Director of the Film Department of the Museum of Modern Art, noted.

Audience enthusiasm was most noticeable with an excerpt from a ballet film, "Pas de Deux," by Norman McLaren of the National Film Board of Canada, distributed by Columbia Pictures.

The stark beauty of a graceful ballet couple in action is achieved visually by a stroboscopic lighting effect in which the arms, legs and body movements are shown in flowing motion through multiple images.

McLaren started with a mental concept of the end result but he began by photographing the ballet duo normally. The film was processed and viewed. Then the film was copied on fine-grain film through the optical printer—with the addition of extra images on each frame by multiple exposures. Each extra exposure was adjusted by visual inspection through the alignment of the beam-splitting prisms. In some cases there were up to 10 images on a frame and there are 1440 frames-per-minute of filming. It was a job of infinite and painstaking patience while maintaining artistic perfection.

"Pas de Deux" was photographed in black and white so that color would not distract from its symbolism of abstract art. The stroboscopic effect is used legitimately to advance the ballet dance concept instead of as a novelty or gimmick. It shows visually the continuous flow of movements which give ballet its universal appeal. It is a tribute to McLaren as an innovator in film-making techniques and to the creative use of a technical optical machine.

Plans Include Relocation Center

Chicago's Skid Row Will Soon Give Way To Urban Developing

EDITOR'S NOTE — Skid Row in Chicago is soon to be replaced by a huge office-apartment complex. Part of the planned redevelopment includes a relocation center for the inhabitants of the rundown area. The hope is to keep these men together and upgrade conditions for those who don't want to return to standard society.

By RICHARD GREB
Associated Press Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — The "Street of Forgotten Men"—Chicago's Skid Row—will soon give way to urban development.

The men who inhabit the bars and curbs and 50-cent-a-night sleeping rooms are being nudged from the heart of Skid Row to make room for a $350-million redevelopment project.

They can share in the Chicago plan—if they want to.

Planned for the eastern end of Skid Row—an area running for almost one mile west of the loop on West Madison Street—is an office-apartment complex to be called the Place du Sable. It will include a 90-story skyscraper—to be the tallest in the city—and an experiment in putting working and living quarters in the same buildings.

A Chicago-Memphis development partnership won city approval of this plan in December, about one month after bids were submitted.

Provided in the bid contract is the agreement that the city's Department of Urban Renewal will obtain and clear the 6-acre, six-block site and the developers will buy the cleared land for $21,174,537.

Charles R. Swibel, one of the partners, president of Chicago's Marina City and chairman of the Chicago Housing Authority, said he expects two-thirds of the land to be delivered in about 18 months. Construction, he said, will begin in two years and will take 10 years.

Simultaneous with redevelopment land acquisition, the department is working on a relocation center where the Skid Row men can remain together instead of scattering around the city and the nation.

Blueprint for the center is a study presented in May 1967 by Dr. Ronald C. Vanderkooi, sociologist at the University of Illinois in Chicago and consultant for the city.

Prime purpose of the center, he said, is not rehabilitation but upgrading conditions for the men who don't want to return to standard society or are trapped on Skid Row by small fixed incomes or other conditions.

Many of the facilities the men are accustomed to should be encouraged to relocate near or in the center, Vanderkooi said, including privately run taverns, restaurants and other service businesses.

Skid Row, or The Street, as it is known to the men, is a community of old, run-down buildings, dominated by cheap hotels, taverns, liquor stores, second-hand shops, day labor agencies (called slave markets by their clients) and vacant store fronts.

Skid Row was born in the late 19th century, a child of expanding railroads, shipping and industry.

Men filling temporary and seasonal jobs gathered on Madison, near the railroads and their work.

A rough life style with low expectations developed. The men didn't have to worry about how they looked or whether they were on schedule. Work was there when they wanted it, but not binding if they preferred sleep.

Men flocked to the street, swelling the population, at times, to as many as 75,000 people.

They came: Men with alcohol problems or personality difficulties, home lives they couldn't face or a lack of money; migrant workers or single men from the country seeking the city's affluence. Some planned to make their bundle and leave. Few did.

After World War II there was more money and better education available to the young and expectations changed. Increasing automation eliminated traditional Skid Row jobs. More modern misfits turned to a different, non-work oriented life style of drugs, philosophy and contemplation of other cultures.

Today, few come to the working men's skid rows. The population of "The Street" has dropped below 12,000, with fewer than 2,000 in the redevelopment area. For the first time in years, shopkeepers and service workers are noticing winter vacancies in the hotels.

LIBRARY GIFT FROM WEST COAST
FOR JERSEYVILLE

JERSEYVILLE—The Jerseyville Free Library has received a number of gifts including 53 books and an electric typewriter.

The typewriter was a gift from Mrs. James E. Cadle, a member of the library board.

Mrs. Jack Leak of San Rafael, California, formerly of Jerseyville, and a member of the Jersey Community High School faculty for some time, sent a box of twenty books from California to the local library. All the volumes were works of fiction with the exception of a large, illustrated book on modern fine glass.

Twenty-one books were received by the library from Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hornell. Most of these are science books, a valuable addition to this department, and several psychology texts and classic works of fiction are included.

Mrs. H. F. Henderson has donated twelve books including works of Joseph Conrad, DeMaupassant and Tolstoy.

The library has purchased thirteen new fiction books now ready for distribution. Among them are "The Final Diagnosis" by Hailey; "Bide Me Fair" by Harvey Howells, the saga of a Scot family; "The Lost Queen," a historical record of romance and tragedy based on the life of Princess Caroline Matilda, sister of George III; and "Dance of the Dwarfs," a suspense story by Geoffrey Household.

Mrs. Eleanor Bell is librarian and Mrs. Paul Richey, assistant.

The box bag makes a comeback this spring. This beauty in smooth white leather has a front inset of multicolored Persian print. It's by Murray Kruger.

LCW Circle At Arenzville In Jones Home

ARENZVILLE — The Anna Garten Circle, LCW, of St. Peter's Lutheran church met Thursday evening, Feb. 20, at the home of Mrs. Floyd Jones. Two guests, Mrs. William Jones and Mrs. Charles Hierman, were present in addition to 12 members.

Mrs. George Bischoff, assisted by Mrs. Don Paul, led the topic, "Miracle of Dialogue," from the book of the same name by Ruell Howe. Members took part in two experiments in interpersonal relationships centering on verbal and non-verbal communication.

World Day of Prayer services will be March 7 at St. Fidelis Catholic church. A Bible Study Group will begin February 27 at 11:00 a.m. at the parish hall. The church and parish hall spring cleaning is April 1. It was suggested that members write individually to the Mail-box Missionary family and to servicemen from the congregation.

The date of the March meeting will be announced. Refreshments were served by the hostess.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Rourke of Rockville, Md., became the parents of a daughter born Feb. 9. The infant was named Amy Moureen and joins Greg, aged ten, and Teri Lee, aged seven. Mrs. Rourke is the former Mary Jones. The maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Leo Jones of Arenzville.

Mrs. Edward Treadway and Kristy Jo of Staunton visited Wednesday, Feb. 19, with Mrs. Inez Kleinschmidt. Recent dinner guests at the Kleinschmidt home were Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Lovekamp and Greg of Beardstown.

Rev. and Mrs. Delbert Tiemann and family of Rochester, N.Y., and Mr. and Mrs. Julius Nobis and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Nobis of Muir, Mich., were called here by the death of Carl Tiemann and attended funeral services. The Nobises returned home on Tuesday.

PICKING UP LOOSE ENDS

It's all tidbits this time around.

We hope everyone appreciated the moving of the MacMurray-Illinois College game last Thursday to the JHS Bowl as much as we did. The good turnout, we figured it at about 1,500, was evidence that there is some interest in the local colleges outside the student bodies.

Probably the one deserving the most credit for the move is MacMurray chief Bill Wall, who stuck his neck out by giving up his home court advantage when his club still had a chance for a post-season tournament bid. Now the Highlanders have to sit back and wait for a decision by the tournament committee.

IN THE SAME game, one of the best examples of sportsmanship we have seen in some time was displayed. Both followings, and there never has been too much love lost between the two schools when it comes to basketball, gave IC's Charley Martin a standing ovation when the senior left the game with about two minutes remaining. It wasn't hard to figure out, either, as Martin left behind him four years of outstanding basketball and a mark as a gentleman on and off the court.

PROFESSIONAL wrestling is coming back to Jacksonville after an absence of many years. The sport, which annually draws well in nearby Waverly and Quincy, is being sponsored by Illinois College literary society Gamma Nu, with a March 12 date at the IC gymnasium.

To followers of the sport, some of the biggest names will be on hand, including former world champ Pat O'Connor, Tornado Murdock, Bob Geigel and Stan Moose, as well as some of the top women wrestlers, Jean Antone and Betty Niccoli.

ISD SENIOR John McDonough was recently picked on the first All American Deaf squad, with sophomore teammate Willy Forrest getting an honorable mention.

GRIGGSVILLE High senior Dwight Dunham Thursday night became the second highest scorer in the school's history, second only to Val Rumble, who finished with 1,283 points. Dunham ended up with just over 1,100.

QUINCY High school's leading all-state candidate, Richard Hickman, is reportedly out for the remainder of the season after suffering an ankle injury against Lanphier recently.

JACKSONVILLE High grad Andy Applebee, a sophomore, owns three swimming records at Cornell College, in the 100 freestyle, the 200 free and the 500 free. Applebee is one of the big reasons behind Cornell's fine season, 9-1 going into the final meet Saturday.

ISD COACH Jim Bonds dug back to the beginning of ISD football — well before the turn of the century — for an in-depth paper on Deaf football. Among his findings were a 256-141-34 record, and a 67-16-8 mark against other deaf schools.

AMONG THE 17,129 holes-in-one reported to GOLF DIGEST in 1968, was one on a 390-yard hole, a 240-yarder by a woman, one by a man 86 years old, two by 11-year-old girls, one by a right-hander using a lefthanded club and two by one-handed golfers.

NOW THAT BASEBALL'S strike has been settled, players can look forward to the rigors of spring training. Cincinnati Reds are already at it, under watchful eye of Manager Dave Bristol.

Mantle Retires

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — Mickey Mantle, at a loss for words, announced his retirement from baseball Saturday before a packed news conference at the New York Yankees' spring training hotel.

Mike Burke, president of the Yankees, introduced Mantle to reporters, saying the veteran star had "reached a firm conclusion, and I think it's best that he tell it to you himself."

Then Mantle, dressed in a dark blue turtle neck, light blue slacks and checked jacket, stepped to the rostrum. But instead of making a statement, Mickey said "I'm open for questions."

The first one, of course, was what had he decided.

"I'm not going to play baseball anymore; that's all I know," he said slowly. "I can't play anymore. I don't hit the ball when I need to. I can't steal when I need to. I can't score from second when I need to."

Mantle said he had talked his situation over with Ralph Houk, manager of the Yankees, Friday night and Burke Saturday morning. "We decided this would be best for me and for the club," said Mantle, who most of his 18 year career, was one of the most feared sluggers in baseball.

Mantle said his outside business interests, which include a chain of country kitchens and clothing stores, also helped him reach the decision.

No Pay Cut

The 37-year old Mantle, who came up originally as a shortstop, had been paid at the rate of $100,000 a year since the early 1960s, and the Yankee management had indicated it would have continued paying that much in 1969 even if Mantle played only part time.

Mickey Mantle

"I have to appear at all the kitchen openings and there are about 45 sold right now," he explained.

Mantle said he had no current plans to remain with the Yankee organization. "But Mike told me if I ever wanted a job, it was available."

Mantle said he was disappointed that he was not a lifetime 300 hitter. He finished at 298. "But I'm very proud of my 18 World Series homers," he added.

Mantle said his wife was very happy with his decision.

"She's been asking me to quit for three years," Mickey related. "I'm planning to get out to the ball park now and then, but I won't put on a uniform."

In a prepared text, Mantle said:

"I never wanted to embarrass myself on the field or hurt the club in any way or give the fans anything less than they are entitled to expect from me. I'm not sure I can play well enough to satisfy myself."

Time to Quit

"Last fall I still thought that I might play another year if I felt well enough in spring training. As the months passed I felt more sure in my own mind that now was the time to end my career as a ballplayer."

Houk said, "We all know Mantle would have played on any ball team I managed as long as he wanted to and I think we all know that the game is losing a superstar."

Burke said Mantle's future with the Yankee organization "would depend solely on how much time he has to give. Right now we have left it that he will have a relationship with us and we will have a relationship with him."

Burke's statement said: "This is a sad but inevitable day. We are losing a truly magnificent Yankee and baseball will sorely miss this one of a kind athlete."

Spartans Breeze To 99-80 Margin Over Cavaliers

WHITE HALL — Hot-shooting North Greene closed out its regular season with an impressive 99-80 romp over Carlville Saturday evening.

The Spartans, closing out at 14-10, jumped in front 22-17 and 50-33 at the first two halves and eased in from there.

John Janvrin whipped in 37 points, 14 in the second period, and had four teammates in double figures, including Bob Dawdy with 19.

North Greene outshot Carlville 57 per cent to 44 per cent and held a 40-31 board advantage.

HINSDALE WINS SWIMMING EVANSTON, Ill. (AP)—Hinsdale Central Saturday captured the 38th annual Illinois High School Association's state swimming championship for the third straight year.

Hinsdale scored 208 points in the Evanston High School pool. New Trier East was second with 153 points and Evanston wound up third with 124.

Purdue Ices Panthers Streak To 78-51 Margin Behind Rick At Litchfield

IOWA CITY, Iowa (AP)—Purdue's Boilermakers wrapped up their first Big Ten Conference basketball title since 1940 Saturday night, whipping Iowa 77-51 as fabulous Rick Mount poured in 43 points.

The victory gives Purdue a conference mark of 11-1 with no other league team within reach. The Boilermakers finish the season with two games at home.

Mount, who needed 110 points going into the contest to set a new Big Ten scoring record, poured in 21 field goals and sank his only free throw. His point production was two shy of his career high, set against Iowa at Purdue earlier this season.

The lead changed hands six times and the score was tied five times in the early stages before Purdue went ahead to stay. The Boilermakers led 51-46 at halftime.

Iowa, led by John Johnson with 20 points, Glenn Vidovic with 18 and Chad Calabria with 17, pulled up to 55-53 early in the second half, but drive in shots by Mount and two baskets by 7-foot center Chuck Davis put Purdue back in command.

The Boilermakers were without the services of their No. 2 scorer, Herm Gilliam, but the way Mount was shooting they didn't need him.

Panthers Streak To 78-51 Margin Behind Rick At Litchfield

LITCHFIELD — Jerseyville warmed up for next week's Carrollton with an easy 78-51 romp over Litchfield Saturday night.

The Panthers, who closed the regular season with an 18-6 slate, led 17-12 and 30-22 after the first and second quarters, and clinched the outcome with a 26-11 spread in the third frame.

Lewistown Nips Havana By 38-36 For League Tie

HAVANA — Jewel Bussey hit a tie-breaking bucket then iced the game with two free throws with only ten seconds remaining as Lewistown scored a 38-36 victory over Havana Saturday night.

The win moved Lewistown into a tie with Beardstown for the loop title, both with 8-2 records.

Both clubs were ecold in the contest, with Lewistown shooting at a 33 per cent clip to Havana's icy 26 per cent rate.

Havana, closing the regular season with a 13-13 mark, was led by Mike Noble with 12 points.

Regional Activity Starts This Week

Round two of the annual 'March Madness' gets underway Monday night with the start of the Regional Tournaments around the state, with area clubs involved in three of them, all expected to be tight.

Regionals get underway Monday at Jacksonville High school and Carrollton, with the Havana affair starting a four-night stand Tuesday. Of the three, top-rated Jerseyville at Carrollton appears to be the strongest favorite among the top-seeded outfits.

While Jerseyville looms a strong pick at Carrollton, Jacksonville is expected to get its strongest competition from Pittsfield in its own meet, and top-ranked Forman could get pushed by any of four clubs at the Havana Regional.

Jacksonville

Regional activity returns to the spacious JHS Bowl after a one-year absence and the five-night event promises to be as interesting as its 1968 counterpart, held at Beardstown.

Host Jacksonville (15-8) rates as the team to beat, but Pittsfield (16-7), Beardstown (15-9) and small - school powerhouse Triopia (25-2) figure to have a say in the eventual champion.

The JHS Regional will be a five-night affair, with two games Monday and Tuesday, at 7:00 and 8:30, and single games the final three evenings, with the winner to advance to the Quincy Sectional the following week.

Monday night it will be the host Crimsons, with the best schedule of the eight teams behind them, going against Brown County (8-15). JHS, which knocked off top-rated Pittsfield for the laurels last year, is paced by all-state center candidate Duane Mounts, a 6-4 1/2 center highly regarded by college scouts all over the country.

Mounts, averaging 23 points and 14 rebounds a game, is flanked by 6-3 junior Chad Ormiston and 6-3 senior Bob Brummett, both in double figures, at the forwards and 6-1 junior Rick Hatcher and 6-0 senior Rod Simonds at the guards. The Crimsons come into the game with a three-game winning streak after a late season slump that saw the team drop four in a row.

Size Disadvantage
Brown County will be at a definite size disadvantage against the Crimsons. The Hornets have lost several games by close scores this season and depend on quickness. The Hornets of coach Don Galloway are led by 5-11 senior Bob Galloway and 6-1 junior Warren Martin, both averaging well into double figures. Dick Stout, a 5-8 senior, Jim Anderson, a 5-10 senior, and 5-10 senior Pat Tracy are also consistent scorers.

Monday's second game figures to be perhaps the most interesting of the opening round. It pits defensive-minded Triopia, which swept through the Meredosia District last week, against Rushville (11-13). The Trojans have given up an average of only 40 points a game over the season, have won 25 in a row and have averaged winning their games by over 24 points.

Veteran coach Don Kemp, who has never won a Regional in his 17 years of coaching at Arenzville and Triopia, has a balanced lineup of Dennis Branner and Jim Six at the forwards, Wes Hendricker at center and Bernie and Mike Meyer at the guards. All are between 6-3 and 6-1.

Balanced Attack
Rushville also presents a balanced scoring attack, led by 6-1 senior Joe Reische and 6-1 junior Bob Patterson, who has missed the last three games with an ankle injury. Gary Morrell, Jeff Langner, Paul Burton and Bob Jones have all had good nights during the season.

In the first game Tuesday Pittsfield, a four-point loser to JHS in the Crimsons' first game of the season, will go against Routt (9-14). The Saukees usually start a lineup that averages well over 6-2, led by Tom McCartney, Steve Jenkins, Tom Casteel, 6-6 Bill Anderson and Fred Grote. John Ruzich and Bob Anderson are first-line reserves.

Routt had the school's most victories in five years this season. The Rockets are led in scoring by junior forward Ed Tighe and 6-6 center Ken Cors. Forward Dave Ryan and guards Ed Johnson and Don Fuchs have all had high-scoring nights during the year.

Tuesday's finale will pit Beardstown against Winchester (9-15), a team the Tigers beat 78-55 two weeks ago. The Tigers are paced by 6-4 senior Roger Webster, 6-4 Rick Deacon and 5-11 guard Phil Lewis. Webster and Lewis are averaging well into double figures and give coach Rex Davis a tough rebounding duo.

Foot-Moving Game
Winchester goes with a pressing, fast-breaking game that can give any team trouble on a hot night. Junior Lloyd Boes is the club's leading scorer, with center Mike Brockhouse close behind. Dan Sparrow is the third leading scorer, followed by Dan Buhlig.

Tickets for the first three nights will be a first come basis. The last three nights all seats will be reserved, with each school given an allotment. Any tickets left unsold by the schools will be put on sale at the door.

Officials assigned by the IHSAA to the Regional are Tom Alexander of East Peoria and Edward Biznek of Staunton, games 2, 4, 5, 6 and 7; and Rudy Favero of Springfield and Herman F. Pinkelman of Quincy, games 1 and 3.

Carrollton

Jerseyville, knocked off by North Greene last year, will be a strong pick to sweep through the Carrollton field and advance to the Quincy Sectional where the Carrollton winner will take on the winner at Jacksonville.

The Panthers, with by far the biggest enrollment and the toughest schedule, have beaten four of the teams in the Regional handily; 80-48 over Calhoun, 77-63 and 67-51 over Southwestern 83-57 over North Greene and 77-66 over Carrollton.

The Panthers of veteran coach George Havens are led by guard Jim Lynn and 6-0 Mike Church. Dave DeShazer, Tom Purcell and Scott Posey are also potent scorers. Jerseyville has won seven of its last eight.

The tourney will open Monday with Jerseyville taking on Pleasant Hill (1-19) at 7:00, and Southwestern (6-16) meeting Calhoun (8-14) at 8:30.

Pleasant Hill is suffering through its poorest season in many years, with a lack of size and scoring punch greeting new coach Chuck Orwig this campaign. Chris Jakulski and Gary Hart are the top scorers for the Wolves.

Southwestern, led by high-scoring Ken Schrier, recently lost to Calhoun 52-45. The Warriors, paced by Jerry Crader, have won four of their last five outings, losing only to Greenfield, Friday, since getting off to a slow start.

In Tuesday's contests second-rated Greenfield (19-5) goes against Carrollton (7-15) in the opener and North Greene (14-10) faces Brussels (12-8).

Banner Campaign
Greenfield, with the area's most potent offensive average, was the big surprise of the area this year, coming off two straight 4-17 campaigns to run up the school's best record in years. The Tigers boast the most productive scoring trio in the area with Chuck Morrow, 26 per game, Dan Bowman and Ric Lamb.

Carrollton, an 87-78 winner over Greenfield last week, has a mainly underclassmen lineup, led by senior Mark Frech. The Hawks have dropped their last two outings by close scores, 65-64 to Beardstown and 54-42 to Calhoun.

North Greene, with only one starter back from last year's Regional champs, still has the state's leading scorer in 6-7 John Janvrin, averaging 33 points a game. Guard Bob Dawdy has been scoring big since an early injury.

Army's Freeze Tips Navy, 51-35

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP) — Army went into a freeze after building up a 15-point lead with 8:46 remaining and whipped Navy 51-35 Saturday in the annual service academy basketball game.

In beating the Middies for the sixth straight time, the Cadets tried only two shots from the floor after starting the freeze. Surprisingly, there was little adverse reaction from the crowd of 4,595 in the Navy Field House.

Jim Oxley scored 18 points to lead the Cadets, now 14-8. Navy, topped by John Tolmie and Scott Semko with 13 each, finished its season with a 7-14 mark.

Army, which held a commanding 27-7 edge in rebounds, took the lead for keeps at 13-12 with 5:40 to play in the first half. The freeze started with Army on top 39-34. The Cadets missed their only two field goal tries thereafter, but added 12 points on free throws.

Brussels, having its first winning season in 17 years, has a balanced attack. Brussels lost to North Greene 62-43 during the regular season.

Wildcats Climb
Out Of Tie, Tip
Minnesota 74-70

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP) — Northwestern climbed out of a four-way deadlock for last place in the Big Ten with a 74-70 victory over Minnesota Saturday night.

The Wildcats moved their conference record to 5-12 and increased their over-all mark to 13-9. Minnesota dropped into a three-way cellar tie with Indiana and Wisconsin. The three teams have 4-8 conference records.

Northwestern's Don Adams hit seven of his first eight shots to move the Wildcats to an early 25-20 lead.

Larry Mikan led the Gophers' rally with six points but Northwestern held the halftime edge, 43-39.

Northwestern's Dale Kelly and Mikan shared game honors with 21 points each.

Over Winchester

MENDON — Unity of Mendon started with a rush and raced to an easy 87-64 non-conference victory over Winchester Saturday evening.

The host Mustangs led 16-8 and 41-28 at the initial breaks, and iced the outcome with a 25-19 difference in the third stanza.

Bob Conover tossed in 26 points and Brent Voth added 25 for the winners, while Lloyd Boes hit 17 points and Mike Brockhouse 16 for the losers, who finished the regular season with a 9-15 record.

DURHAM, N.C. (AP) — Sophomore Dick DeVenzio and senior Steve Vandenberg, who has spent most of the season as a reserve, picked apart the proud North Carolina defense Saturday to give Duke Coach Vic Bubas a parting present—an 87-81 victory over the nation's No. 2 ranked team.

Vandenberg scored 33 points, including 13 of 13 from the free throw line, and grabbed 12 rebounds.

The 5-foot-10 DeVenzio scored 13 points, but set up scoring play after scoring play as he ran the Tar Heel defenders dizzy.

It was the final home court appearance for Coach Bubas, who is leaving his coaching job after 10 years to join the Duke administrative department. Bubas received a standing ovation before the game started and then was carried from the court after the upset.

Duke was ahead 46-33 at halftime, but North Carolina struck back after intermission, scoring 11 straight points while holding the Blue Devils scoreless for 4 minutes, 11 seconds.

Charlie Scott paced the North Carolina attack with 22 points and Dick Grubar added 16 and Bill Bunting 15.

Fred Lind had 18 to help the Duke cause.

Stewart Leads Michigan Past
Wisconsin 84-79

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Michigan forward Dennis Stewart playing his last home game for Michigan led the Wolverines to an 84-79 Big Ten basketball victory over Wisconsin Saturday.

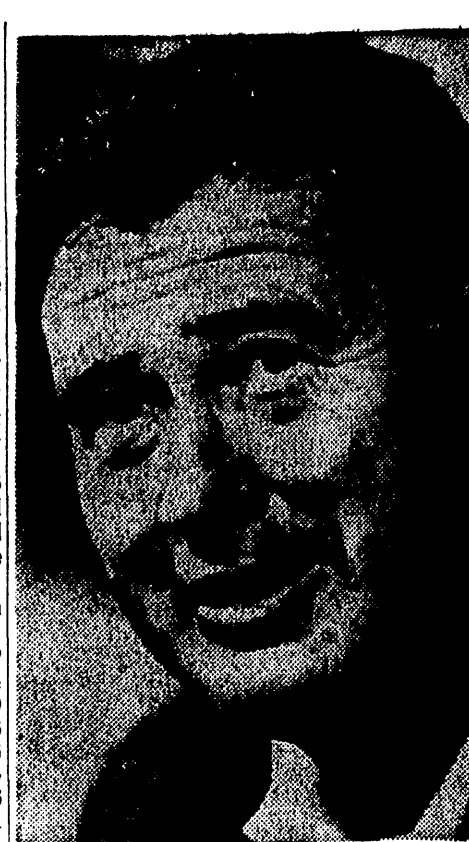

Although hampered throughout the game by sloppy ball handling, Stewart pumped in 21 points and helped out significantly under the boards.

Jim Johnson provided most of the punch in the Wisconsin offense, scoring 28 points — 19 of them in the first half.

Along with Stewart, the game marked the final home appearance for Wolverine Captain Ken Maxey and starting forward Bob Sullivan.

The victory pushed Michigan's Big Ten season mark to 7-5 but the team must face conference leaders Purdue and Ohio State in its last two games. Michigan is now 13-9 over-all.

The loss trimmed the Badger's Big Ten record to 4-8 and 10-12 over-all.

CHAMPAIGN — All three Jacksonville High school wrestlers lost their opening round matches in the state tournament Friday evening.

Rick Williams, the Crimson's 103-pounder, fell 7-0 to undefeated Lyn Couture of Northlake West Leyden.

Doug Reining at 154 pounds lost 5-0 to Bruce Chvalovsky of Franklin Park East Leyden. Reining, finishing at 26-7 on the year, was eliminated as Chvalovsky, ending at 22-2, was defeated in the second round.

Terry Hammers at 180 pounds lost 10-4 to Gary Lambrecht of Port Byron Riverdale and was eliminated after Lambrecht also lost his second test. Hammers finished with an 11-4 mark and Lambrecht ended up with a 26-2 slate.

Mantle's Move
Tops Baseball
News Saturday

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Mickey Mantle announced his retirement from baseball Sunday, ending a brilliant, 18-year career with the New York Yankees.

"I can't play anymore," explained the 37-year-old slugger, whose 536 lifetime home runs placed him third behind Babe Ruth and Willie Mays—on the all-time list.

Mantle's announcement, at a news conference at the Yankees' Fort Lauderdale, Fla., spring headquarters, completely overshadowed developments at other training camps on the official reporting date for all major league players.

But there also were long faces in Orlando, Fla., where the Minnesota Twins listed 16 holdouts on their roster, and Vero Beach, Fla., where Los Angeles manager Walter Alston fretted over late arrivals and unsigned regulars.

With Harmon Killebrew and Tony Oliva the only signed regulars in camp, Minnesota Manager Billy Martin used pitchers in the outfield in Saturday's intrasquad game. Reserve catcher Bruce Look, seeking a 100 per cent raise to about $20,000, left for his Michigan home after conferring with club president Calvin Griffith.

Outfielders Len Gabrielson and Andy Kosco, first baseman Wes Parker and catcher Jeff Torborg reported to the Dodgers' camp, but unsigned pitchers Claude Osteen and Don Drysdale and outfielder Ron Fairly did not appear.

"I have to feel our team is still behind in conditioning because most of our veterans have arrived so late," Alston said.

In Miami, unsigned first baseman Boog Powell took a dim view of Baltimore Manager Earl Weaver's plan to use outfielder Frank Robinson part-time at the bag. Pitcher Tom Phoebus, 15-15 in 1968, was the only other Baltimore holdout.

Third baseman Ken McMullen, one of 15 Washington players flown to Pompano Beach, Fla., for contract talks at the club's expense, packed up and flew back to his California home, the return fare also paid for by owner Bob Short. McMullen and Frank Howard, American League home run king reportedly asking for a three-year, $300,000 pact, are the lone Washington holdouts.

Pittsburgh signed southpaw pitcher Bob Veale, who became the last Pirate to come to terms, and the new Seattle Pilots signed outfielder Tommy Harper, their No. 2 choice in the expansion draft.

Three JHS
Matmen Fall
In State

BLOOMINGTON — Three players were repeat selections from last year on the first team "All-Star" squad in District 20 of the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics announced Saturday in Bloomington by District Publicity Chairman Bill Carey.

District officials are meeting at Illinois Wesleyan University to select four teams for the District 20 playoffs, the winner advancing to the NAIA tournament in Kansas City, Mo.

All-American candidate Jesse Price, 6-5 senior forward from Millikin University, was the only unanimous selection named to the six-man first team by the 20 voting District coaches.

Price was also voted most valuable District player by the coaches and appears on the first team for the third straight year.

Bob Anderson, flashy 5-10 guard from Western Illinois, also was selected for the third straight year. Mike Brady, 6-4 Quincy junior, is the third repeat selection.

Rounding out the first five are junior Greg Crawford, 6-6, from North Park, senior Greg Beenders, 6-2, from Eastern Illinois, and junior Clyde Oatis, 6-1, from Aurora.

Beenders was second to Price's 20 first team votes with nine and Crawford third with eight. In very close balloting, no other players were named by more than five coaches to the first team.

Named to the six-man second team were 6-5 senior Mike Finley from McKendree, 6-6 junior Tom Pasko from Olivet Nazarene, 6-1 senior Bill McManaman from Lewis, 6-2 seniors Charles Martin from Illinois College, and 6-2 senior John Mitchell from Chicago State.

Illinois College freshman Kent Wildrick made an honorable mention at forward.

Vandy Knocks
Off Kentucky
In 101-99 Upset

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Vanderbilt knocked off league-leading Kentucky 101-99 Saturday in a regionally televised Southeastern Conference basketball contest.

The victory denied the sixth-ranked Wildcats a tie for the conference championship and added luster to an otherwise dismal Commodore season.

Vanderbilt, fired up and fumbling, jammed Kentucky's usually methodical machinery in the first half. After five minutes of throwing the ball away, Vandy settled down, evened the score at 11-11 and raced to a 40-41 halftime advantage on the strength of Tom Hagan's 10-point shooting and a bevy of stolen passes.

The Commodores stretched their lead to 14 points with 7½ minutes left in the second half, then started playing safe. It was nearly fatal.

With less than two minutes remaining, Vanderbilt held a 13 point, 95-82, lead. The frantic Wildcats, utilizing a full court press, swiped the ball repeatedly, poured in 15 points and pulled within two points as 20 seconds showed on the clock.

But the Kentucky press sprang a leak in the last six seconds, as Perry Wallace received a long pass, rang up a basket and iced the victory.

The Commodores were led by a trio, all scoring over 20. Sophomore Rudy Thacker poured in 23, and Perry Wallace and Hagan each registered 22.

The Wildcats were led by Dan Issel with 41 points, followed by Mike Pratt and Mike Casey with 21 apiece.

There will be four teams traveling to the state competition in Rockford in April, and each represents a single division.

The bantam division (12 and under) representatives are Bob Manker, Donnie Fernandez, Mark Black, Rob Roy Hembrugh and Dick Bonjean.

The junior boys division is being represented by the Arings Marathon team which includes Roger Russell, Danny Hill, Skip Bradshaw, Gerry Barton and Eddie Aring.

The senior girls team in the competition will consist of Judi Flesher, Janet Nelson, Lynn Crank, Kathy Rayburn and Pam Wojcik. Midland Electric's winning team will represent the senior boys.

Another State Tourney
The Illinois "Sweet 16" has set up a special handicap bowling tournament which will be operated on practically the same basis as the basketball meet is every year.

There are 26 sectionals in this tournament, and the Bowling Center in Jacksonville is holding one of these.

One out of every seven entries in the team, doubles and singles divisions in each of the 26 sectional will advance to the super sectional; and one of every seven entries in each section will be guaranteed their entry fee back plus their entry fee paid to the super sectional.

The team super section and finals will be held at Sunset Lanes in Pekin on May 3, 4, 26½ record. Jerry Agans had the high series with a 568, while Wayne Stanberry rolled a 211 high game.

The School District 117 league finds Donovan Construction Company in first place still with a 39½-23½ record. Warren Owens rolled a 532 series and 201 game for those honors, while John Corder is the average leader with a 162.

Donna Timian and Becky Forner paced the women. Miss Timian had a 453 high series, while Miss Forner rolled the high game with a 177.

HOERNER TO TERMS
ST. LOUIS (AP) — Joe Hoerner, southpaw relief pitcher for the St. Louis Cardinals, signed his 1969 contract Saturday for an undisclosed amount, a team spokesman said.

Hoerner, 8-2 during 1968, became the 29th of 38 players to sign. They will proceed immediately to the team's spring headquarters in St. Petersburg, Fla., the spokesman said.

Brenda Proffitt and Chet Reum captured the "Bowler-of-the-Week" honors. The 5th Annual City Tournament for grade school and high school bowlers finished with awards on Saturday. Also named were the local representatives to the AJBC sponsored state tournament in Rockford April 12-13.

Martin Borman, Bob Manker and Larry Whitaker took the top three spots in the individual competition. Borman's score, which included his handicap as all tourney scores did, was a 669. Manker had a 661 while Whitaker was three pins off that pace with a 658.

In the doubles competition Darryl Fox and George O'Connell teamed to capture the event with a 1231 total.

Mike Minor and Danny Fairfield took second place with an 1194 total, while third place went to Harold Leitze and Barry Bringman with an 1192 mark.

In the straight team competition, the Midland Electric team took the top honors with a 3057 total and will go to the state tourney in Rockford as the senior boys representative. Demolay had a 2902 for second place.

Triopia Claims District, 50-25

MEREDOSIA — After having some early trouble with Bluffs' ball-holding tactics, the Triopia Trojans broke away in the third quarter to down the Bluejays 50-25 and capture their second straight District title, Friday night.

Triopia, now 25-2 with 25 straight victories, now advances to the Jacksonville Regional where the Trojans will meet Rushville at 8:30 Monday evening.

Auburn Tips New Berlin For Title

FRANKLIN — Auburn defeated New Berlin 65-54 in the Franklin District title game Friday, to advance to the Springfield Regional Monday night where the Trojans will play Lincolnwood at 9:00.

Ron Ervin led the Trojans scoring with 24 points while Charles Kunz hit 15 for the Pretzels. John Ramsey and Stan Messmore totaled 29 points for Auburn and Gordon Clark and Walter Werries scored 20 for New Berlin.

Auburn's full court press proved to be very effective as the Pretzels had 23 turnovers to Auburn's 12. In shooting Auburn hit 20 of 38 for 53 per cent with New Berlin hitting 17 of 60 for 28 percent. Auburn was outrebounded by New Berlin 42-20. Stan and Mike Messmore netted ten of Auburn's 14 points in the first quarter of play.

Auburn took a narrow two-point lead in the first quarter with the score at 14-12. Both teams hit 13 points in the second period. The Trojans pulled ahead in the third period, however, and nabbed a seven-point lead. The Trojans then outscored the Pretzels by four points in final quarter.

Harold Kund and Bill Sims are a top scoring punch for City Water.

Mounts Leads Jacks In Fourth Quarter

By BUFORD GREEN
Sports Editor

Duane Mounts' hot fourth quarter allowed Jacksonville to hold off hot-shooting Gary Flamini and the Southeast Spartans for a 76-71 Capitol Conference victory at the JHS Bowl Friday evening, as the Crimson closed out a 15-8 regular season.

Mounts hit three buckets to stave off the rallying Southeast club after JHS had dropped a nine-point spread late in the third quarter, with Flamini, a quick 5-8 guard, putting on a brilliant 35-point show in the losing effort.

The game was a battle of JHS beating or falling to the Southeast press for the most part. The Crimson had trouble in the first and fourth periods and were outscored in both frames. In the second and third rounds JHS zipped through the defense for several easy shots and outscored Southeast 47-35 in the two frames for the final difference.

Elsewhere, it was a struggle between Southeast's hot shooting and the Crimson's domination of the boards. Southeast, starting with a 70 percent first period, outshot the eventual winners 52 percent to 41 percent, but were outrebounded 35-25, 17-5 offensively.

Raiders Stave Off Pittsfield For 71-66 Count

PITTSFIELD — Quincy Christian Brothers High school held off a stubborn Pittsfield team Friday and pulled away late in the last period to win its fifteenth game of the season, 71-66.

CBC jumped out to a 9-0 lead but Pittsfield came back in the second quarter to tie the game 22 all and go ahead by two. CBC then reeled off 12 straight points and held the lead the rest of the way.

Strong Unity Surge Upends Wolves By 83-66

PLEASANT HILL — Curt Sellers and Brent Voth led Unity of Mendon in a strong first quarter surge that staked the Mustangs to an 83-66 win over the Pleasant Hill Wolves Friday night.

The Mustangs outscored Pleasant Hill 24 to 11 in the first frame and were outscored by only two points in a 15-13 third quarter. Sellers topped scorers for the contest with 25 points, followed by Pleasant Hill's Gary Hart with 21.

The chief topic of conversation on the university campus Thursday was the coaching position, and normally talkative players refused to discuss the matter.

The first public indication of the smoldering wave of resentment arose Wednesday when a group of players met with Jim Kehoe, newly-appointed athletic director.

Kehoe planned to meet with players Monday.

Ward, who just returned from Long Island, said "I really don't know anything about the situation."

There have evidently been problems since Ward arrived on the coaching scene two years ago.

Last Quarter Surge Wins For Cardinals

By DENNIS RIEKEN

Pleasant Plains High school hit 11 out of 15 from the field and outrebounded Routt 12-1 in the final quarter to come from behind and win the last game for both teams in the regular season, 75-62, Friday night at the Routt gymnasium.

After trailing most of the first half, Pleasant Plains fought back to take a 49-47 lead at the end of the third period. The Plainsmen maintained their two-point lead through the first minute of the last quarter and then broke loose to outscore the Rockets 15-5 in the next five minutes, taking a 68-56 lead with 2:00 showing.

Plains then stalled and played Routt even the remainder of the contest.

The Cardinals took their biggest lead of the game up to that time when 6-1 forward Rich Grant hit a five-footer to put the winners up 57-51 with 6:39 left in the game. Routt came back with a pair of free throws before the Plainsmen put on their winning burst.

Pleasant Plains hit a field goal and Grant tipped in a rebound with 5:35 left to go ahead 61-54. Guard Larry Theilen then scored on a lay-up after which Routt Center Ken Cors collected his fourth penalty by fouling Grant, who hit his charity toss. With 3:45 to go Theilen put Plains ahead 66-54 with a 15-footer.

Ed Tighe then scored Routt's first bucket in three minutes to bring the Rockets within ten, where they stayed the rest of the game.

Routt moved out to a 37-34 halftime lead and kept it in the third period until Allen Boesdorfer stole the ball with 4:15 remaining and scored on a lay-up to put Plains on top 42-41. The Rockets came back as Dave Ryan, playing his last regular game for Routt, connected on to grab a 45-42 lead before Cardinal Rod Griffith hit a 15-footer, tying the contest at 45-all with 2:26 showing.

With 1:51 to go in the third quarter, Tighe gave the Rockets their last lead, 47-45, with a 20-foot jumper from the corner. Boesdorfer then connected and Theilen stole the ball and scored on a lay-up with two seconds left.

Grant took scoring honors with 28 points and Ryan paced the Rockets with 15 points, nine coming in the first period.

The Cardinals hit a sizzling 67 per cent from the field in the second half to Routt's 33 per cent. Routt was able to rebound the winners 9-4 in the third period to stay even.

RAUSCH WINS TITLE
Tony Rausch emerged victorious in the Jacksonville YMCA's First Annual Open Handball Championships with a thrilling 21-12, 21-19 match over runner-up George Clark. Rausch earned his way to the title match with a forfeit victory over John Wittich and a grueling 15-21, 21-12 slugfest over Lerton Krushas. Clark gained second spot honors by drubbing Walt Matthews 21-6, 21-8 and conquering Tom Frenkel 21-16, 21-3.

Webster's Free Throw Decides 65-64 Tiger Win

CARROLLTON — Roger Webster hit a free throw with 59 seconds remaining in the game to break a tie and let Beardstown nip Carrollton Friday night, 65-64.

Webster was the high scorer for the Tigers with 26 points while Mark Frech hit 17 for the Hawks. Carrollton led in shooting hitting 25 of 47 for 53 per cent and Beardstown hit 29 of 59 for 49 per cent. Carrollton also outrebounded the opposition 29-26. NEW YORK — (NEA) — It took a couple of days to get Prof. Clyde Howard King to the phone from his sand diggings in the Arizona desert. Prof. King, who has been retained as the resident lecturer for the San Francisco Giants this year, was building a sliding pit at Casa Grande, where the team conducts its spring exercises.

Sliding practice for major leaguers? "A guy," said the professor, resorting to the vernacular, "needs reminding even when he gets to the majors. Last year, three or four of the Giant regulars jammed and bruised their wrists in sliding."

Clyde (he's really not austere enough, despite the spectacles, to be "Professor") has the baseball equivalent of a doctorate to qualify him as the manager of a team which has now finished second four years in a row in the National League. "My job," he said, "is to get them thinking in the right direction. A manager, they say, might not win more than five or six games a year for his team. But I played for fellows like Walter Alston, Charley Dressen and Leo Durocher, and they made a lot of difference in their teams."

The crucial element in King's credentials is that he has been identified with pitching—he has coached that art for the Cincinnati Reds, Pittsburgh Pirates and St. Louis Cardinals—and it now dominates the sport.

"That's because pitching gets more personal, individual instruction," elaborated the professor, who will deliver a treatise on the subject at the drop of a vowel. Years ago, we once took a plane trip with him and managed to retain the notes of his lecture. They comprise a mini-King doctrine of pitching, samples of which follow:

"The main thing is to get them to think. The arm doesn't throw as many balls as the head. "A pitcher learns more the three days he sits on the bench than on the day he pitches. I don't believe he should write down stuff in a book. He can't consult it on the mound."

"Don't give a pitcher a slider unless he doesn't have a curve. But a good slider is better than a mediocre curve."

"The low curve is the double play ball. The flat curve is the home run."

"You can be a one-pitch pitcher only if you throw a sinker or a knuckleball."

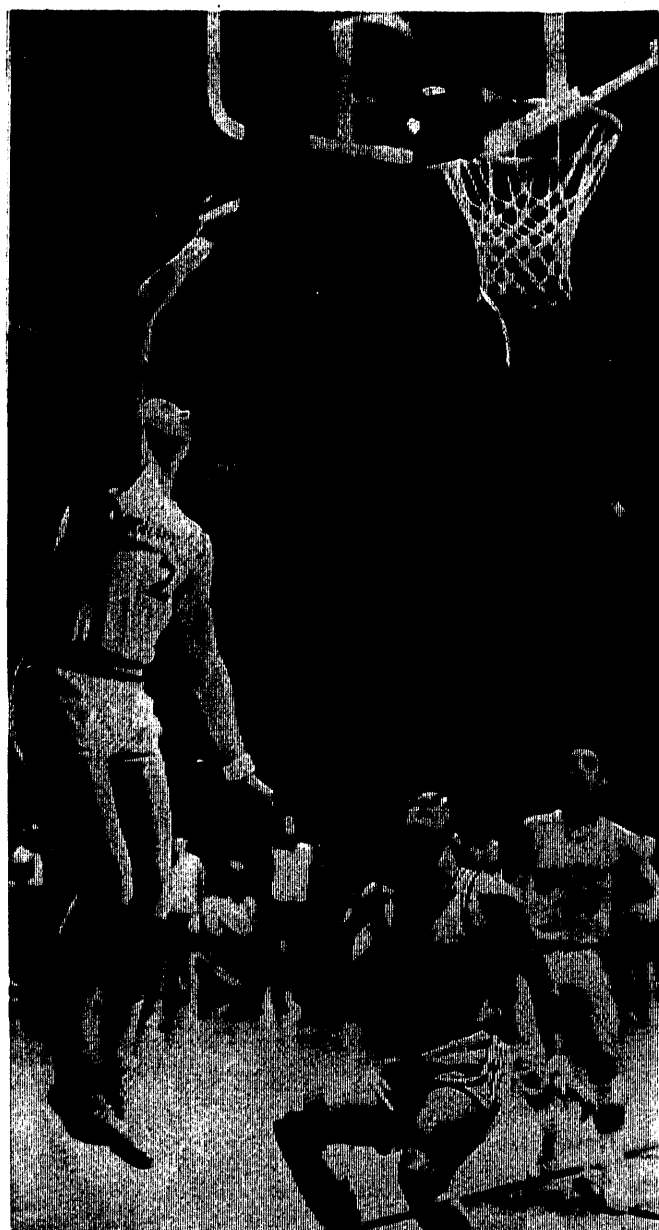

"Don't fool with success. Be careful of over-instructing. You've got to be a believer in yourself."

And for that he used the example of his first appearance as a major league pitcher, for the Brooklyn Dodgers in Ebbets Field. The bases were loaded, none out, when Clyde was called in to relieve with Phil Weinbraub, Ernie Lombardi and Mel Ott of the New York Giants—a sluggers' row—coming up against the rookie pitcher.

"I mixed them up pretty good," recounted King, "and got the first two on infield pops. But Mickey Owens (the catcher) had come out to the mound and asked me to throw only fast balls. Ott doubled, and the next day Mr. (Branch) Rickey asked me why I threw only fast ones. I told him Mickey thought it would be best in that situation. He said, 'You have to determine yourself how you shall pitch.'"

Bringing us up to date, Clyde vowed, "I'm not going to fool with pitchers like Juan Marichal and Gaylord Perry unless they get in difficulty." And despite his background, he is going to try to influence Giant hitters. "I worked," he said, "with two of the greatest batting instructors in history—George Sisler Sr., and Harry Walker Jr."

And what did he learn? "That a left-handed batter has to have his right shoulder going to the pitcher at all times. It keeps you from backing out or going in one direction or the other."

ON THE LOOSE: Jacksonville High's Rick Hatcher is all alone as he goes up for a fast break layup, as Southeast's Kent Hammond watches helplessly and JHS' Rod Simonds follows the play. Action came after a Crimson steal in first half of 76-71 JHS victory Friday evening.

King has also learned about being a manager and job security. When he was introduced to San Francisco, someone asked where he planned to live.

"Goldsboro," he said.

"Is that a suburb?"

"How far from town?"

Alcindor AP Player Of The Year

LOS ANGELES (AP) — It was a thoughtful Lew Alcindor of UCLA who learned Friday he had been named the 1969 college basketball player of the year in the annual poll conducted by The Associated Press.

Alcindor and his Bruin teammates boarded a plane soon after for Pacific-8 Conference games at Stanford and California this weekend.

"In a way," said Alcindor, "I'm surprised as I am not thinking about individual honors at this time."

"This or any other award won't mean too much unless the team wins the National Collegiate Athletic Association championship again."

"However," Alcindor concluded, "it is a great honor to win this top award for the second time here at UCLA. I'm very thankful and proud."

The 7-foot-1½ star, a three-time All-American, captured the award by a landslide of votes. He polled 226 votes in balloting conducted as a separate category with that for the AP All-American team. Some of the 339 who voted for the All-American team did not vote for the Player of the Year.

Nearest to Alcindor was Pistol Pete Maravich of Louisiana State University, the nation's leading scorer. He polled 65 votes.

Alcindor, rounding out his senior year at UCLA, won the honor in 1967 as a sophomore. Last year Alcindor was beaten out by Elvin Hayes of Houston.

Free Throws Let Macomb Defeat Rushville, 65-59

MACOMB — Free throws were the difference as Macomb held off a Rushville rally in the closing minutes for a 65-59 Spoon River Conference victory over the Rockets Friday night.

Macomb canned 33 of 49 charity chances to 21 of 37 by Rushville, which outscored the winners by six points from the field.

The winners led by five entering the fourth stanza before Rushville got with two points with two minutes remaining.

Clendenon Announces Retirement

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Donn Clendenon, veteran first baseman involved in a controversial trade in which he went to the Houston Astros and Rusty Staub went to the new Montreal team, announced Friday he is retiring from baseball.

Clendenon, 33, has been named vice president with Scripto, Inc., an Atlanta firm for which he has worked three years in the off season.

Clendenon said he did not know how his retirement would effect the trade made last winter between Houston and Montreal.

Only Linguists Can Follow Congo Sports

By MORT ROSENBLUM
Associated Press Writer

KINSHASA, the Congo (AP)—You can get along fine in French in this well-lit city of a million—that is, unless you're a football fan.

Radio broadcasts of major matches are in French. But they're also in Lingal, Swahili, Tshiluba and Kikongo. And since there is only a single transmitter, announcers take turns.

The idea is that each time the language changes, the new speaker gives the score and a brief summary of what happened before picking up the thread.

But it usually works like this: "Kalala akotisi motopi na monyama ya Santos... (etc. in Lingala)." Then you'll hear, after burst of screeching applause from the crowd: "Beautiful, beautiful. What a game! Here's Louis-Gerard Ekwalanga to take over in French."

Then in French... "This is Louis-Gerard Ekwalanga to describe the game in French. Yes, sports fans, magnificent, this game. Magnificent. You absolutely would not believe it. Here, before our very eyes. Kalala came from the side and ...Look! Look at that! Can you believe it?..."

From then on, prior action is lost forever. Non-Lingala speakers are left wondering just what Kalala did, or whether he the in shape to do anything, and if he did do anything, what the score is and why.

The answer would be, of course, to wait for the end to hear the summary. The problem is that the game ends in whatever language happens to be up at the time and frequently only Baluba tribesmen know who won before the morning papers arrive.

There are no reliable figures as to how many Kinshasa residents speak French but even though the true percentage is high, most still feel more comfortable in their mother tongue. Not only sports events get the quintalingual treatment.

a summit conference here recently, the ceremony was broadcast live. But as they descended from their plane, the Kikongo speaker had the mike.

After about five minutes, the studio broke in with a minute-long lecture in the middle of the live transmission:

"Now, Gerry, we must remember this is the OCAM summit and OCAM members all speak French but very few understand Lingala and Kikongo... If I understood well, and I didn't understand very well, the six presidents have started reviewing the troops. Please describe it for us in French so that..."

When the studio cut back to the airport, the Kikongo announcer ceded the mike. But he gave it to the Swahili man. It was about 10 minutes before many listeners were sure all presidents expected had indeed made it.

There are about 200 well-defined languages and dialects in the Congo and a number of variations on those. The most widely spoken is Lingala (not a tribal language) of the Bangala people (not a tribe).

Bangala is the name given to a series of tribes along the Congo River who were in constant contact for trade in the Congo's early days. Lingala grew as a lingua franca much as Swahili did on a larger scale in East Africa, including parts of the eastern Congo.

Before independence the Belgians made Lingala the language of the army, spreading it throughout the colony, which is the size of Western Europe. It is the only language President Joseph D. Mobutu uses, other than French, at popular gatherings.

Kikongo is the language of the lower Congo, including Kinshasa. Tshiluba is spoken by hundreds of thousands of Balubas, principally in the Kasais and Katanga.

Reserve Board Vows Continued Efforts To Curb Inflation

By PHIL THOMAS
AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The government indicated this past week that it was going to keep its foot pressed hard on the financial brakes this year in the continuing effort to cool off the overheated economy.

The warning that the Federal Reserve Board "means business" about keeping credit tight was sounded by William McChesney Martin, the board's chairman.

Martin said it was hoped the government could reduce spiraling price increases without causing a downturn in business but cautioned that "this has never been done before too successfully."

Martin pointed out that the rise in prices in January "certainly makes it look like we have more to do" against inflation. The day before Martin spoke, the Labor Department reported living costs rose three-tenths of 1 per cent in January and there were indications of a similar increase in February.

It said that while the January rise was slightly smaller than the average monthly advance in 1968, it still boosted the over-all cost index of 4.6 per cent above the level of January 1968. Higher prices for services of all kinds, particularly those associated with auto operation, home ownership and medical care, were chiefly responsible for the rise.

Martin also touched on interest rates, saying he expected them to remain "about the same" this year.

Speculation that the nation's major banks may boost their prime interest rate upward from its current record 7 per cent has been blamed in part for sending the stock market sliding downward. The Dow Jones industrial average, which had lost a total of 35.30 points in four days of trading the previous week, lost another 12.68 points in the first day of trading this past week. The market did rally during the week, but the comebacks usually faded out.

In other developments:

The price of gasoline to their major dealers was raised by some oil companies. Sinclair Oil Corp. and Gulf Oil Corp. boosted prices six-tenths of a cent a gallon, the same as that posted earlier by Texaco, Inc., the nation's largest gasoline marketer. The D.X. Division of Sun Oil Co., Phillips Petroleum Co. and American Oil Co. made a seven-tenths of a cent a gallon increase.

Auto sales for the middle 10 days of February totaled 236,575, up from the previous year's 192,880. New car sales from Jan. 1 through Feb. 20 totaled 1,053,690 cars, slightly ahead of the 1,009,376 sold in the comparable period last year.

Meanwhile, General Motors Corp. said it was recalling 4.9 million cars and trucks for possible safety defects. The recall, the industry's largest such action, involves carburetors of some 1968 and 1969 models and exhaust pipes on some Chevrolet built during the past five years.

Robert W. Haack, New York Stock Exchange president, said the paperwork jam in brokerage back offices highlights the "urgent need for imaginative long-range planning" by the securities industry. The problem is one under study by the Securities and Exchange Commission.

Earlier in the week, the exchange said more than 1,200 issues of eligible shares have size is scheduled for 1973. The company operates four other major generating plants in Illinois. It has 414,000 electric and 313,000 gas customers in Wall Street. It said the service now includes some 500 million shares worth more than $25 billion.

The National Machine Tool Builders' Association said new orders for January were 31 per cent above January 1968 at $127.8 million, but down from December's $149.7 million.

Steel production last week came to 2,755,000 tons, compared with 2,697,000 tons the previous week. Output for the year so far is an estimated 19,548,000 tons, down from 20,903,000 tons at the same time last year.

CALDWELL RECEIVES BRIDGE CONTRACTS

Caldwell Engineering Co. of Jacksonville was the apparent low bidder and was awarded a contract Friday by the Department of Public Works and Buildings for construction in Adams county.

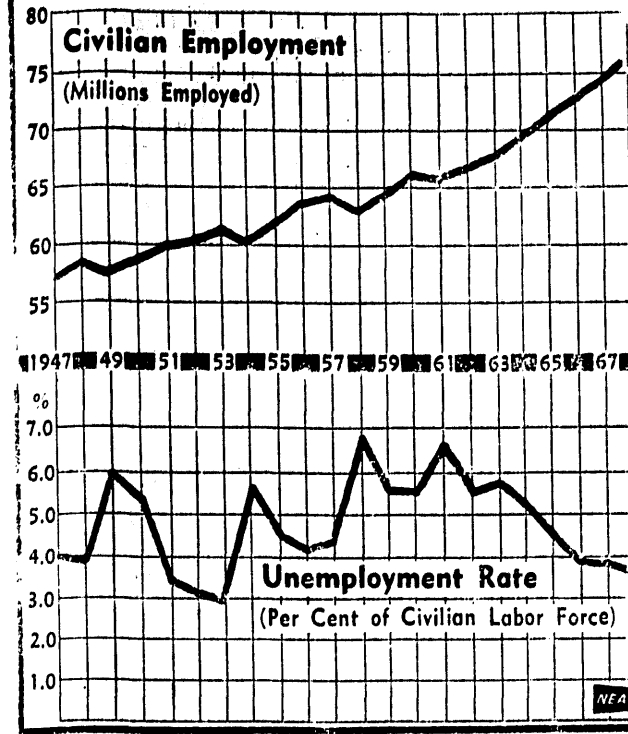

The contract calls for reconstruction of a bridge on Illinois Route 96 over Ursa Creek, another bridge over Rock Creek, south of Ursa, and a culvert at Frazier Creek, all on Ill. 96.

The contract bid was $338,954 and was part of $19 million let by the department in Springfield Friday.

THE EMPLOYMENT STORY

Sixty million jobs was regarded as a utopian dream when proposed as a national employment goal during the Roosevelt administration. But the figure has been long since passed as employment totals zoomed upward during the postwar decades. More jobs have not eliminated unemployment, however. At some points, the jobless rate has risen even as employment was on the upgrade.

Illinois Power Maps $527 Million Plans For Next Five Years

Illinois Power Company estimates it will spend $527,000,000 for new construction in the next five years, it was announced this week in the company's annual report to shareholders. In 1969, construction expenses are estimated at $103,500,000.

The company said the five-year $527,000,000 building program will involve $211,000,000 for electric generating facilities, $68,000,000 for gas facilities and $248,000,000 for electric transmission and distribution facilities and other additions.

The program includes the new nine-month generating station in southern Illinois at Baldwin, with the first 600,000 kilowatt generating unit scheduled for completion in 1970. A second unit of the same size is scheduled for 1973. The company operates four other major generating plants in Illinois. It has 414,000 electric and 313,000 gas customers in Wall Street. It said the service now includes some 500 million shares worth more than $25 billion.

The company reported 1968 electric revenues of $128,038,000 and gas revenues of $66,351,000, representing increases of 10.1 per cent and 9.9 per cent over the corresponding revenues for 1967.

The report revealed that the 10 per cent federal surtax absorbed $2,917,000 of increased earnings, with a 1968 net income figure of $33,337,000 to compare with $33,101,000 in 1967. Earnings on the common stock amounted to $2.43 per share compared to $2.41 in the prior year.

The quarterly dividend on the common stock was increased from 40 cents to 43 cents per share on February 1, 1968, and

The Studio has been redecorated, paneled partitions have been added and new furnishings have been installed. A formal opening and open house is being planned for later this year.

SEE RECORD SALES BY EQUITABLE LIFE

The Equitable Life Assurance Society of the U.S. will distribute approximately 13 1/2 million dollars in individual life and health insurance and annuity dividends to residents of the State of Illinois in 1969, it was announced this week by Richard Brown, local representative.

Brown reported that for the nation as a whole, Equitable will distribute approximately $173,950,000 in 1969 in dividends, a record amount involving an increase of about $8 million over 1968.

BANK IN MACOUPIN DOUBLES PAR STOCK

The capital stock authorization for the Farmers State Bank of Medora has been doubled, according to an announcement this week by Robert W. Blaha, commissioner of banks and trust companies.

Capital stock has been increased from $25,000, consisting of 250 shares with a par value of $100, to $50,000, comprised of 500 shares with par values of $100 each.

N.Y. Stock Market Continues Decline Amid Weak Trading

NEW YORK (AP) — Fear of even higher interest rates and tighter credit accompanied another stock market decline last week, the market's third straight.

The Dow Jones industrial average took a sharp loss of 11.44 at 905.21.

Volume for the week was 53,267,760 shares for a five-day week of four-hour sessions compared with 45,552,030 for the previous week, which was cut to four sessions by the Washington's Birthday holiday.

Although the market began to show some feeble signs of resistance to further decline, the statistics were all to the downside.

Of 1,735 issues traded on the New York Stock Exchange, 1,339 fell and 305 rose. New highs for 1968-69, totaled 5 while new lows totaled 199.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks dropped 8.3 to 337.5 last week — somewhat less than its 14-point drop of the previous week. That one happened to be the worst since a decline of equal size in the week ended May 25, 1962, which was right before the horrendous shakeout of "Black Monday," May 28, 1962.

Fears that the panic selling of the historic week in May 1962 would be repeated proved groundless, although the market continued weak. No unusual selling pressure prevailed.

It was not unexpected when the market fell on Monday, for "Blue Mondays" have become

New Shoe Store Will Open Soon In Beardstown

BEARDSTOWN — Tommy Meyer, a third-generation manager in one of Beardstown's oldest business operations, said Wednesday he will be opening Beardstown's newest and most modern shoe store in time for the Easter Parade.

Remodeling and refurbishing work is now being done at the location, 607 E. 4th street, adjoining the Meyer Big Super.

It will be a family shoe store, he said, offering a full line of men's, women's and children's shoes, boots and rubber footwear.

New lighting, air conditioning, a new heating plant and a new front will be completed in a few weeks.

Meyer said he will manage the store as another part of the family business complex, which includes two grocery stores and a hotel.

The late Frank Meyer started the grocery business here in 1898 in a frame building which stood on what is now used as the Big Super parking lot. He and his twin sons were active in management of the enterprises.

Tom and his father Logan are now sole operators, but Logan has been letting up in the past year, with Tom taking on the heavier responsibility of management.

Beardstown lost two State street shoe stores in the past year. Orville Riggs and his wife retired and the Davis store was closed after Mr. Davis suffered a stroke.

Snow brings with him 16 years of life insurance experience, including five years in the field, two of which saw him selling over a million. The remaining eleven years have been involved with home office capacities in the Agency Department.

He has most recently been the director of sales training, travelling the entire Western half of the country conducting sales meetings and seminars.

Snow has been a featured speaker at a number of life underwriter meetings in Colorado and the Western part of the nation. He has also spoken professionally to many clubs and organizational meetings.

Snow's topic will be "Get Off Your Plateau," and is aimed at motivating and re-evaluating attitudes and goals.

ELMORE TO HEAD FARMERS GRAIN AT GREENFIELD

GREENFIELD — Howard Neil Elmore has accepted the position as manager of the Greenfield Farmers Grain Co. and will assume his new duties March 3. Mr. Elmore has been serving as a district sales manager of Moorman feeds for several years.

He succeeds Don Bailey, who recently resigned as elevator manager. Bailey had been employed with Farmers Grain the past 23 years and had served twelve years as manager.

Elmore and his wife, the former Judy Whorton, and two sons will return to Greenfield from Woodstock. He is the son of Howard Elmore and the late Mae Elmore of Greenfield. He graduated from Greenfield High School and Western Illinois University.

Soybean, Grain Futures Decline

By ED DE MOCH
AP Business Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — Soybean and grain futures prices declined from 1 to 3/4 cents a bushel on the Chicago Board of Trade the past week.

There were several factors that influenced the liquidation. The principal influence on the decline was a lack of incentive to hold long positions early in the week.

On the last trading day, traders had to disclose intention if they planned to accept delivery of March contracts or if they planned to tender against the contract.

Corn tenders numbered 3 million bushels, wheat 4.1 million and soybeans 6.385 million bushels. Corn tenders were about what the trade had expected, but wheat and soybeans tenders were higher and, as a result, selling was heavy against the March contract.

When trade closed for the week, wheat futures were 1/2 to 3/4 cents a bushel lower than a week ago, March 1.28; corn was 1/4 to 1/2 lower, March 1.14; soybeans were 1/4 to 3/4 lower, March 69; rye was 3/4 cents lower to 3/8 higher, March 1.15; and soybeans were 2 cents lower to 1 cent higher, March 2.61.

Soybean oil was 1 point lower to 23 points higher, March 8.79; soybean meal was 45 points lower to 10 points higher, March 71.15; choice steers were 10 to 32 points higher, April 29.07; and iced broilers were 13 points lower to 10 points higher, March 27.50.

The strike of longshoremen at East Coast and Gulf Coast ports, which started Dec. 20, was over — so far as the agribusiness community was concerned — and export trade was again on the move.

However, the backlog of business and number of vessels awaiting loading prevented any immediate expansion of trade.

There was some widespread feeling, too, that export business that had been lost during the long strike could not be recovered because requesting countries sought supplies from other sellers.

There also was a measure of uncertainty during the week in the soybean complex over the government's decision on the 1969 soybean loan price.

The current price is $2.50 a bushel and many in the trade feel a lower price would stimulate usage of soybeans and products and possibly permit expansion of export trade with competitive products. Farmers and farm associations, however, are reportedly in favor of retaining the current price.

The December corn contract set a seasonal low during the week.

Airline Strike Talks Recessed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Mediation Board has suspended negotiations between American Airlines and its striking employees until Monday afternoon, dashing hopes for a weekend settlement.

The board said that "after 10 consecutive days of intensive negotiation" it had requested management and the union "to spend the weekend apart and re-examine their respective positions."

Some 15,000 members of the Airline and Transport Workers Union, mechanics and communications and service employees, struck the airline Thursday morning. Another 7,700 employees, the flight personnel, are not involved in the dispute but are out of work.

The union struck after a 30-day cooling-off period and 10 months of talks. Its contract expired last May.

Union negotiators are seeking a 30 per cent increase in wages over two years, plus other fringe benefits. Wages now range from $3.16 to $4.16 an hour.

Gasoline Prices To Increase Via Producers' Move

NEW YORK (AP) — Eight major oil companies have raised the wholesale price of gasoline by either six or seven tenths of a cent and many service station operators have decided to pass the price hike on to drivers at a rate of one to three cents a gallon.

The manager of a Mobil station in New York City said, "Naturally, if prices go up, we'll raise our prices."

In Detroit, the Retail Gasoline Dealers of Michigan, representing 2,000 service stations, said drivers there will pay a cent or two more than the current price of 35.9 cents for regular gas and 39.9 for premium.

A Boston dealer who said he plans to raise prices three cents a gallon added "Business is lousy this time of year and this just makes it lousier."

A San Francisco dealer, George Currie, said he'd try to hold the line on prices "but I don't want to start a gas war."

Frank M. Anderson, a Texaco dealer in Atlanta, raised gas prices one cent this week and will add another penny to the total next week, he said. James Bowen, a Sinclair dealer in Decatur, Ga., near Atlanta, said, "I plan to go up one cent."

But drivers near Kansas City, Mo., may escape an increase. The city is in the midst of a price war that has cut prices to as little as 20.9 cents for regular gas.

Texaco was the first company to announce a price rise, when it said Monday that it would charge six-tenths of a cent more per gallon. Two major oil companies that did not announce price changes were Humble and Shell.

There are about 23,000 foresters in the nation. About 8,000 are working for the federal government.

Insurance Firm Reports Income During 1968

FORT WAYNE, Ind.—Lincoln National Corporation reported this week consolidated net income in 1968 of $50,505,000, amounting to $5.05 per share. This is an 18 percent increase over earnings for 1967 of $42,578,000, which were at the rate of $4.26 per share. All figures for 1967 are quoted on a restated basis.

Lincoln National Corporation, which was chartered during 1968, is the parent of a group of companies of which The Lincoln National Life Insurance Company, Fort Wayne, Indiana; The American States Insurance Companies, Indianapolis, Indiana; and the Dominion Life Assurance Company, Waterloo, Ontario, are the principal members.

Other insurance companies owned by the corporation are The Lincoln National Life Insurance Company of New York, New York; North Atlantic Reassurance Company, Paris; Dominion - Lincoln Assurance Company, Ltd., London; and Lincoln Philippine Life Insurance Company, Manila.

Non-insurance companies controlled by the corporation are LNC Development Corporation, a real estate development firm, and Equipment Investors, Inc., Menlo Park, Calif., which arranges financing and servicing of leases covering capital equipment.

The total life insurance in force as of December 31, 1968, for member companies of the Lincoln National group amounted to more than $21.4 billion, an increase of more than $1.6 billion during the year.

Attack On School Prayer
Ban To Stir New Hassle

David Poling

By DAVID POLING
Last year Sen. Everett Dirksen, R-Ill., announced that he would press for an amendment to the U.S. Constitution, providing for the freedom of religious exercises in the public school. It read: "Nothing contained in this Constitution shall abridge the right of persons lawfully assembled, in any public building which is supported in whole or part through the expenditure of public funds, to participate in nondenominational prayer."

The consideration of this amendment by Congress will provoke a major division of opinion within the churches. For one thing, many of the major Protestant denominations have adopted vigorous statements opposing prayer and Bible reading in the public schools. To many in this land, this is a strange turn of events, indeed. But the reasons are not too hard to grasp.

For one thing, the tradition of separation of church and state is as old as the country. It means simply that no one church will be preferred or endorsed by the civil government. Writing in 1786, American patriots in Providence, R. I., publicly burned 300 pounds of tea and British documents.

In 1776, American Marines fought their first battle, capturing a fort in the Bahamas. In 1861, Dakota was organized as a U.S. territory. In 1899, Congress established Mt. Rainier National Park in Washington State. In 1945, during World War II, U.S. troops reached the Rhine River at a point opposite Dusseldorf, Germany. In 1949, an American B50 Superfort landed at Fort Worth, Tex., after completing the first nonstop flight around the world. Ten years ago — There was anti-U.S. rioting in La Paz, Bolivia.

Five years ago — Communist China's Premier Chou En-lai had returned home from a Southeast Asian tour and a visit to 10 African nations. One year ago — Seven Communist MIGs were shot down as American planes attacked anti-aircraft missile sites in North Vietnam.

Every scalp requires some massage to keep it healthy. Before you go to bed each night, massage your scalp in little circles with your forefinger. This daily bit of stimulation will keep both blood circulation and oil glands purring along smoothly.

Legs Like Velvet

If leg grooming is a never-ending process for you, try combining the shaving and softening process. Instead of using shaving cream or soap on your legs, apply baby oil and then shave. The result: smooth, soft legs in half the time.

IT'S GIRL SCOUT COOKIE TIME — And Scouts Joanne Gibbs (left) and Missy Williams (right) of Girl Scout Troop No. 66, Washington School, present the first box to their principal, Charles V. Tavender.

Though Mr. Tavender has the distinction of being the first to sample the goodies, the general public will have to wait a bit, as the cookie sale does not officially get going until after school on Friday, March 7. None will be available prior to that time, but from then on through March 16, the Girl Scouts will be putting forth every effort to make this year's sale the biggest yet.

One of the reasons the girls are so enthusiastic this year is because the proceeds of the sale will be used to construct a building at Camp Shagbark, the Girl Scout Camp at Lake Jacksonville.

The building will be one which will serve as a shelter in bad weather, so that crafts and other camp projects may continue, rather than having to be postponed or moved to another location in the event of rain or unseasonable cold. The facility is planned to accommodate 125 girls.

Aside from this major incentive, the overall goal is to aid the camping program, with specific aims listed as: 1. improvement and maintenance of the camp; 2. to make it possible for any Girl Scout desiring to do so to attend camp, regardless of circumstances; 3. to keep camp fees at a minimum; and 4. to cover certain operating expenses at the camp.

The Girl Scout council, of which Mary Louise McGinnis is executive, points proudly to the great success of last year's sale, which made possible the building of a boathouse at the camp site; the purchase of two aluminum boats, and the acquisition of between 25 and 30 new life jackets.

Working the "buddy system," the Girl Scouts will be out in pairs, going from door-to-door in every neighborhood and in many places of business. At only 50¢ per box, five varieties are being offered, the Scot-Teas, Mints, Savannahs, Fudge Cookies (new this year) and the always-popular sandwich cremes.

Mrs. Daniel F. Peck and Mrs. Jerome P. Luber are chairman of the 1969 Cookie Sale, which is in effect March 7-16 in all areas served by the Illinois Prairie Girl Scout Council, which includes Cass, Greene, Morgan and Scott Counties.

Roadhouse Troops will sell cookies in Manchester, Carrollton, Greenfield and White Hall. Franklin will be selling in Waverly; Ashland in Alexander; Bluffs in Meredosia; Murrayville will be covered by Jacksonville Troop 56; Woodson, Jacksonville Troop 31; Chapin, Jacksonville Troop 32; Chandelville, Jacksonville Troop 1; Concord and Arenzville, Jacksonville Troops 48 and 84.

All Leaders interested in attending the Leaders Conference at March 12th at the Conrad Hilton Hotel, Chicago, Ill., please contact the Council office by March 5th.

Carrollton couple reveals 1968 wedding

CARROLLTON—Mr. and Mrs. Arch Willenburgh of Carrollton announce the marriage of their daughter, Cheryl, to Sp.4 Richard J. Greaves, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Greaves also of Carrollton. They were married in December of 1968 in Charleston, Illinois.

Mrs. Greaves is a graduate of the Carrollton Community Unit High School and of Eastern Illinois University at Charleston. She is presently employed as a contract assistant in the department of Army Civilian of the A.V.F.C.O.M. in St. Louis.

Sp.4 Greaves is also a graduate of the Carrollton Community Unit High School and is now employed by the department of the Army with the 83rd Engineers Battalion stationed at Ft. Riley, Kansas. He has spent several months of service in Germany and expects to receive his discharge at the completion of his time of service in July, 1969.

Mrs. Greaves was honored at a bridal shower given by the women of the Mt. Gilead church at the church Saturday, February 22.

Dr. Henderson speaks before Altrusa club
Dr. Alfred Henderson, professor of English and British history at MacMurray College, presented the program for the dinner meeting Feb. 24th of the Altrusa club of Jacksonville held at the Beef and Bird. Mrs. Henderson was a guest of the club.

Dr. Henderson showed many colored slides taken on his visit to Hong Kong. In his discussion of the city he stressed the beauty of the area and the friendliness of the people. He commented on the city's rapid population growth and its ability to quickly accommodate the large influx of people.

The president, Lucille Buckalew, presided. Eleanor Craig, chairman of membership and classification committee, presented the speaker and introduced Mrs. Henderson.

During the brief business session, Marguerita Schoedsack thanked Edna Greenler and Dorothy Fenton, members of her committee who assisted in the inventory and marking of items in the Sick Room Loan Chest, equipment which the club loans to Morgan county residents without compensation or obligation. The project is financed through the annual Antique Show and Sale, sponsored by Altrusa.

Mrs. Craig introduced Dorothy Kaufmann, guest for the evening. The next dinner meeting of the club will be March 10th at the Beef and Bird.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Daniel

Daniel-Hish vows exchanged in Virginia

VIRGINIA—A ceremony Friday evening, February 14th, at the First Presbyterian church here, united in marriage Miss Malinda Fay Hish of Virginia and Robert A. Daniel of Philadelphia. Reverend John H. McFarlane officiated.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Hish of Virginia, and the groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. James Daniel of Philadelphia.

The bride wore a gown of Alencon lace and de-lustered satin. Her veil of nylon illusion was secured to a forward cluster of lace and nylon petals adorned with pearls. She carried a white Bible with white mums and greenery.

Miss Marilyn Hish, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore red velvet, trimmed with white lace, and carried a nosegay of red and white carnations.

David Meyer of Jacksonville, cousin of the groom, was best man. Ushers were Ronald Bell, brother-in-law of the bride, and Charles Lacey of Virginia.

The mother of the bride wore a navy blue knit suit and the mother of the groom, an aqua knit suit. Each wore a corsage of white mums.

A reception was held at the church. Assisting were Mrs. Ronald Correll of Jacksonville and Mrs. Charles Jordan of Havana, aunts of the bride; Mrs. Ronald Bell, sister of the bride; Mrs. Darwood Daniel, aunt of the groom; Mrs. Charles Lacey; Miss Marscha Launer; Mrs. Ernest Launer and Mrs. David Meyer.

The bride is a 1966 graduate of Virginia High School and is employed at the Virginia Building and Loan in Virginia.

The groom graduated from the same school in 1965 and served two years in the U.S. Army Medical Corps, serving one year in Vietnam. He is employed at the Philadelphia Co-op elevator.

Special guests were Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Clement and William Hish, grandparents of the bride.

Mrs. William Hish, grandmother, was unable to attend. After a wedding trip West, the couple will be residing at Virginia.

Mac Prexy to Roodhouse C. speak Mar. 5th Of C. Plans to Grace WSCS Public Dinner

The speaker for the March meeting of Grace United Methodist church WSCS will be Dr. John J. Wittich, president of MacMurray College. This will be held at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, March 5th, in the Merner Chapel and open with communion delivered by Rev. Floy Ekin. Members are urged to attend this special program and bring a friend.

Dr. J. J. Wittich

Dr. Wittich, who assumed the college presidency Sept. 1st, succeeding Dr. Gordon E. Michelson, will provide for his listeners first-hand information concerning today's student unrest. The meeting promises to shed new light on one of the major problems in education today.

The speaker has headed College Student Personnel Institute since 1963. An association of colleges and universities for co-operative research, publication and development in student personnel work. CSPI has made widely recognized contributions in the areas of college student behavior and college student services.

Members of the Linda Wiseman Circle will serve refreshments with Mrs. Howard Starr, chairman, Mrs. William Oldenettel, Mrs. Thomas McKinney and Mrs. Richard Swain in charge.

The WSCS executive board will be meeting at 9:30 a.m. Tuesday, March 4th, in the church parlor.

FFA AND 4-H NEWS FROM FRANKLIN

FRANKLIN — The Franklin chapter of FFA maintained their record and remained undefeated in basketball by beating Bluffs FFA with a score of 83-82. The local chapter has met the Jacksonville FFA in two games.

The F. A. N. Corn club meetings will start March 6 and continue weekly.

The Feb. meeting of the Franklin Straight Shooters 4-H was held at the Franklin High School with 22 members present. Talks were given as follows: Tips for the Fair—Carol Anderson. Meet the Changing Challenge of the Beef World—Margie Richardson. And Clipping the Head and Tail of your Cow—Cindy Robinson.

The soil-water conservation project and the electricity school to be held were discussed. It was announced that a tour of the Meredosia Power Plant would be taken on Feb. 12, the time for both events being 8:30 a.m. Talks for the next meeting are to be given by Kelly Dodsworth, Cindy Rawlings, and Joyce Richardson. Sandy Spurling is to give a demonstration. At the close of the meeting, refreshments were served by Joyce and Margie Richardson.

ISLAND GROVE TO HAVE WORLD DAY OF PRAYER RITES

NEW BERLIN — World Day of Prayer will be observed by the churches of West Sangamon on March 7 at the Island Grove Methodist church, New Berlin.

A salad-sandwich luncheon will be held at noon in the church basement.

The program, following this year's theme "Growing Together in Christ," will begin at 1:30 p.m. in the church sanctuary with the representatives of the six participating churches taking part. Mrs. John Reichart, president of the Women's Society of Christian Service of the Island Grove Methodist church, will give the welcome.

Participating churches include the Loami Baptist church, the Loami United Methodist church, the Salem United Methodist church, the Peter Cartwright United Methodist church of Pleasant Plains, the United Baptist church of New Berlin, and the host church, the Island Grove United Methodist church. The public is urged to attend.

Braid Is New Accessory

A braid, banded to bring a fresh new coiffure look to a simple hairdo, is a new accessory that fits on like a headband. Keeping with the pre-styled hairpieces created this season, this hair bandette works like a charm. They are available in 24 popular shades, just the answer for the knacky fashionables looking for an "in" hairstyle.

ROODHOUSE — Miss Ardath Short, chairman of the committee in charge, has announced that the Roodhouse Chamber of Commerce will hold a public dinner on Tuesday, March 11, at 6:30 p.m. at the United Methodist church.

Tickets will be $1.50 per person and may be obtained from any member of the Board of Directors: Tom Sussenbach, Ardath Short, Bill Day, Russell Carey, Ralph Hamm, C. K. Barnett, Frank Hopkins, Robert Gehrig, Carl McAdams, Myron McClenning, W. O. Harp, Clem Coats, Lee Keller, W. W. Wilkinson, Ray Prather and Merle Mackey.

Member Drive
The Chamber of Commerce is now recruiting new members and accepting dues from old members.

A former Roodhouse resident, Mrs. Henry Gallman, who has been residing with a daughter, Mrs. Mildred Bieber in Jacksonville, is a medical patient at Norris hospital.

Mrs. John W. Roberts has returned from a visit of several weeks with cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Thad Brown, and family, Jonesboro, Ark.

Sam Thomas, who has been residing in Marceline, Mo., has returned to the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dalton Thomas, rural Roodhouse. He will be employed at the Stave Mill in Murrayville where his father serves as foreman.

Visitors
Mrs. John P. Taylor was a Friday overnight visitor in the home of her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Watrel, and family, Franklin.

On Saturday Mrs. Taylor accompanied her daughter and children, Jon and Jay, to East Peoria where they visited Mrs. Taylor's nephew and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Graham, and Mrs. Taylor's brother and wife, Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Hartman, and others. On their return home, they were accompanied by a niece, Mrs. Rex Stansberry, and children, John and Julia Ann, who also reside in Franklin.

J. Lee Hopkins and son, Frank A. Hopkins, drove to Springfield, Wednesday, where they attended the general assembly now in session. They spent some of the time with the former's niece, Mrs. W. Clyde Kinser.

Mr. and Mrs. Larry Walton and family, Murrayville, were Sunday visitors in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Fry and with other relatives.

A Tuesday visitor in the home of Mrs. Nona Fry was Mrs. Geneva Parks, Alton.

BASKETBALL AND BAND BYF PLANS AT ROODHOUSE

ROODHOUSE — Wednesday evening, February 19, the Senior BYF met in the First Baptist church. Leader of the group is Mrs. Ray Camp. The president, John Janvrin, conducted the business session.

Future activities were discussed. Tentative plans were made for organizing a church basketball team and a small church band. Plans were made for music to be presented at a future church service.

Following devotions and singing, refreshments were served. Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Ballard and family drove to Carlinville Saturday night, where Dale Brian Ballard served as ring bearer and Larry Ballard served as usher at the wedding of Mrs. Ballard's niece, Rebecca Ann Smith of Carlinville, and William R. Felker, Rolla, Mo.

Mr. and Mrs. Ward Logan visited Mr. and Mrs. Delmar Wintler, Jacksonville, Saturday. Sunday visitors in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Jones and her mother, Mrs. Viola Peek, were Mrs. Peek's son and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Gene Peek, and family, Godfrey, and friend, Janet, from Columbia, Mo.

Mrs. Foster Dill is visiting her sister, Miss Zoe Hunnicutt, and other relatives in Granite City.

Mr. and Mrs. William (Bill) Worcester and children, Hal and Sharon, Atlanta, Ga., spent from Thursday until Saturday with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Worcester.

Mary Marlene Boatmon

FRANKLIN — Mr. and Mrs. William O. Boatmon, 304 Main street, Franklin, announce the engagement of their daughter, Mary Marlene, to Kenneth Donald Swain, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth F. Swain, Alexander route one. No date has been set for the wedding.

Miss Boatmon is a secretary to the business manager at Illinois Braille and Sight Saving School. Mr. Swain is employed by Capitol Records and also engaged in farming with his father. Both young people are graduates of Franklin High School.

Beverly Jean Cully

Mr. and Mrs. Gene Cully, Jacksonville route five, announce the engagement of their daughter, Beverly Jean, to Danny Lee Clemons, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Clemons of Pleasant Plains. The couple plans a June 22nd wedding.

Miss Cully graduated from Jacksonville High School and the School of Practical Nursing in Jacksonville. She is employed at the Memorial Hospital in Springfield. Her fiancé graduated from Pleasant Plains High School, served two years in the Army and is employed at Capitol Records in Jacksonville.

Ella Louise Monroe

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde L. York of Jacksonville announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their granddaughter, Ella Louise Monroe, to Kenneth Lynn Moore, son of Mr. and Mrs. William L. Moore of Litterberry. They will be married March 29th at the Litter Christian church.

The bride-elect graduated from Jacksonville High School in 1968 and is employed at the Frank A. Norris Hospital as a student practical nurse. Her fiancé graduated with the same high school class. He is attending Lincoln Christian College, Lincoln, Illinois.

Special Series Set In March At Roodhouse

ROODHOUSE — The congregation of the First Baptist church of Roodhouse is planning a series of specially prepared annual "March to Sunday School and Church in March" campaign, according to the pastor, Reverend H.L. Janvrin.

Scheduled during the month are: the observance of the Lord's Supper, March 2; Mother and Daughter Sunday, March 9; Father and Son Sunday, March 16; Youth Sunday, March 23 and a special Palm Sunday service on March 30. Reverend Janvrin will present a series of specially prepared sermons relating to the various observances.

All services are open to the public.

Academy 'Drafts' Falcons

AIR FORCE ACADEMY, athletic teams are nicknamed the Falcons. But the mascots must apply to join the U.S. Air Force Academy. But the falcons that become mascots at the Academy are drafted.

Wherever the Air Force football team goes, the falcons and their student handlers follow. During half-times, the fierce eyed birds provide exhibitions of free flight and diving.

As might be expected, AFA look for nests with two or more eyases—young birds—since they want to leave at least one in each nest.

Preliminary training for the young falcons plucked from beneath their mothers' wings begins immediately to get them used to their handlers. When this is over, the birds' feathers have grown out and they are ready to fly.

The next step is to train the young falcon to dive at a leather pouch attached to a long cord held by the falconer. The bird learns to make a series of swooping dives at the lure swung by the handler on the football field, then is allowed to catch the lure and is given a piece of meat as reward.

Academy falcons eat as well as the cadets do—chicken, venison, lean beef and occasionally quail. Right now the academy has six prairie falcons as well as two majestic white gyrfalcons from the Arctic and a saker from Saudi Arabia.

Last year the academy had a dropout falcon. While the birds were performing at a halftime show, a team of precision jet fighters zoomed low over the stadium.

"When they kicked on the afterburners," McIntyre said, "one falcon took off and didn't come back."

Beta Sigma Phi Chapters.

Zeta Beta chapter entertained guests Sherry Slaughter and Sue Martin at a Roman Holiday party on February 24. Guests for the gala event at Jean Bailey's home were attired in typical Roman dress, several of the girls showing originality in devising unique costumes. Appropriate refreshments, similar to those in Nero's day, were served, after which lively games were enjoyed.

On February 10 Muriel Taylor was hostess for the business meeting, assisted by Nancy Westerdahl. The vice president, Katherine Templin, presided. Items under discussion included the monthly parties at Gateway House, Jacksonville State hospital; plans for the rush party; and a couples' Valentine dinner at the Blackhawk, subsequently held on February 15 and attended by several members and their husbands.

Jean Bailey introduced Nancy Owens, operator of The Wiggy at Collins Beauty Shop, who presented a fascinating program regarding her business. She explained how wigs are made and discussed the various materials of which they are made. Then displayed several wigs, falls, wiglets, and various accessories.

Katherine Templin presented Nadine Newton of Greenfield, who displayed a large selection of lovely jewelry for the inspection of the members. Following the meeting, the hostesses served most delicious Lincoln Logs.

Edwards Rites
 Held At Waverly

WAVERLY—Funeral services for Harry O. Edwards were conducted at the Neece Funeral Home in Waverly at 1:30 p.m. Friday, Reverend Donald Batz officiating. Merrill Womach, who sang "Whispering Hope" and "Eastern Gate," provided his own accompaniment.

Pallbearers were Dale Bilger, Bill Powell, Donald VanBebber, Charles Phalen, Elmer Sutter and Otis Ervin Jr.

Burial was in Scottville West cemetery.

Masonic rites, conducted at the funeral home Thursday evening, were led by Howard Elliott, Byron Waters and Lawrence Hayes.

YOUR BIRTHDAY and HOROSCOPE

By STELLA

SUNDAY, MARCH 2 — Born today, you are of an intellectual inclination, taking your greatest pleasures from those things thought of as "cultural." Yet, you are not a one-sided individual. Interested in sports, the arts, science, literature—indeed, anything that reflects man's activity and striving—you make it your business to understand all that you can from a subjective as well as an objective standpoint. You take life seriously—but you also expect life to be fun.

Although capable of great depths of emotion, you are not one to express your feelings openly. A somewhat blasé exterior belies your inner excitement over even simple matters and so long as you don't allow this exterior to be part of your home life as well as your public pursuits, all will be well. Members of your domestic circle, however, deserve to see and know you as you really are.

You have exceptional powers of concentration and are, therefore, able to carry on your work even under the most confused circumstances. Your ability to do this is both a source of envy and a source of amazement to others—but to you it is entirely natural and unremarkable. Only take care that you do not fail to understand those who must have harmonious surroundings in order to produce.

To find what is in store for you tomorrow, select your birthday and read the corresponding paragraph. Let your birthday star be your daily guide.

Monday, March 3

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 21)—Before you enter into new projects, study them well. There may be more than meets the eye insofar as expenses are concerned.

ARIES (March 22-April 20)—Go to work on a co-operative venture. If members of your own family are involved, be careful not to play favorites.

TAURUS (April 21-May 21)—The practical approach will serve you best during a day which seems calculated to bring confusion upon even the most stable Taurus.

GEMINI (May 22-June 21)—Check your plans carefully. The probability of error is great at this time and your ability to rectify it is slim.

CANCER (June 22-July 23)—Don't let your enthusiasm for a new venture run away with it. It could cause you to enter irrevocably upon a poor course of action.

LEO (July 24-Aug. 23) — A suggestion is not to be interpreted as an order. If you find yourself in error, the blame must rest with you.

VIRGO (Aug. 24-Sept. 23)—A day for working out difficulties alone. Your gregarious nature may suffer a bit—but your material assets should grow.

LIBRA (Sept. 24-Oct. 23) — Avoid taking chances with your health. If you have a choice of activities, choose those which don't demand your full strength.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22)—Stick to known methods of operation as you go about your work today. Experiment successfully another day.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 22)—You may ultimately have to take forceful action. But for the time being, try to get along by talking things over.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23-Jan. 20)—Your good name may be the subject of gossip today. Nip in the bud any tendency on the part of another to spread rumors.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21-Feb. 19)—Let those about you have their way where material things are concerned. Covetous action will only make you enemies.

LET'S GO BIRDWATCHING

By Emma Mae Leonhard

Gray Was the Morning To really appreciate a gray world, we should go to a winter woods on a rainy, foggy morning. The sky is roiled in dense gray clouds. The earth below, carpeted in impenetrable fog, seems to be a mirror reflecting the gray ceiling above. Sky and earth are rivals in grayness. Large, bare, rain-soaked trees emerge from the cold gray like stark black dragons.

Such a morning we have often experienced during February, and such was Saturday morning on February 22. Undaunted, we draped ourselves in our most dependable rain-proof clothing, slithered over a moist road to one of our favorite woods for birdwatching, and took a sticky clay trail through the dripping and moaning woods. From the distance we heard the rattling and hammering of woodpeckers hidden securely by the fog and rain-blackened branches of oaks.

The Gray Titmouse
In a near-by tree we saw a small unidentifiable gray form of bird flitting from branch to branch like a shadow. Soon the bird greeted us with a clear whistling "Peter, Peter, Peter," and we immediately recognized the Tufted Titmouse, our neat mouse-gray bird with a gray tufted head. Gray was the picture, but jolly was the Titmouse's greeting. We could imagine its black sparkling eyes twinkling at us.

The Black Crows
As we approached the end of the trail leading to an extensive soggy field, we heard the familiar caws of Crows breaking the stark silence. Soon we saw three black-etched forms rowing with their powerful jet-black wings across the sky, blacker than the clouds above and grayer than the fog beneath. When they approached us, their gray black changed to a silvery blackness, and they lurled increasingly raucous caws at us. Evidently we weren't welcome in this gray world, and we felt gray, too.

The Black Cloud—Starlings
Just as we decided to retrace the path, a black cloud of some 200 triangular-shaped chunky birds swirled down into the far edge of the muddy field. They became lost to our view, but we knew what they were—Starlings. The short-tailed chunky "black bird," with pointed wings spread fanwise in flight, is always easy to recognize.

Song Breaks The Grayness
The silent black cloud of Starlings recalled to us the most frequent question asked of us during February: What bird is always whistling to us in our neighborhood? That is easy to answer, for a change. Up in the tree top or on a TV aerial or around a chimney on a very cold day sits a short-tailed black bird reflecting a glossy sheen of green and purple. Its long pointed bill is yellow. Its "song" is a jumble of squeaks, wheezes, and rattles, relieved sometimes by loud drawn-out whistles which seem to speak to us. Sometimes we are startled when all of these chattering turn to song—the song of the Blue-bird or the Brown Thrasher or the Meadowlark or of other birds, particularly of the Bobwhite. Yes, the Starling is a clever imitator, not as good as the Mockingbird or even the Brown Thrasher; but it can fool us and brighten some of our gray days.

G. E. DeFreitas Dies, Rites To Be Held Monday

Gilbert Edison DeFreitas, who resided at 809 N. Prairie, died at the Meline Nursing Center at 5:30 p.m. Friday. A retired shoe cutter, he lived in California for 30 years before returning to Jacksonville four years ago.

He was born in Jacksonville July 25, 1912, son of Frank M. and Anna Gouveia DeFreitas.

He leaves one daughter, Mrs. Darlene Butler of Torrance, Calif.; two brothers, Nelson G. DeFreitas of Rock Island and Franklin DeFreitas of Jacksonville and two sisters, Mrs. Idelle Kuhnline of Jacksonville and Mrs. Annabelle Beemer, Mishawaka, Ind.

Mr. DeFreitas was preceded in death by his parents and one sister.

He was a veteran of World War Two.

Services will be held at Cody and Son Memorial Home at 2 p.m. Monday, Reverend William J. Boston officiating. Burial will be in Jacksonville East cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home Sunday afternoon and evening.

Ralston Rites Held At Church

FRANKLIN — Funeral services for Mrs. Lucy Ralston were conducted at the Franklin United Methodist church Thursday with Reverend Kenneth Junk officiating. Mrs. Alma Crain was the organist.

Assisting with the flowers were Mrs. John Scott, Mrs. Bill Anderson, Mrs. Ralph Dahman and Miss Ruth Tulpin. Pallbearers were Richard Ralston, John Scott, Bill Anderson, Ralph Dahman, Harvey Smith and Carlos Roberts.

Burial was in Franklin cemetery with the Neece Funeral Home in charge of arrangements.

Runaway Pony Corraled Friday

A red pony that ran a stop light at the intersection of College Ave. and South Main St. narrowly missed a collision with a diesel truck at 3:40 p.m. Friday.

Officer Rene Lemme said the Shetland pony had gotten loose from its stall at 332 South East St. State Trooper Andy Planitz apprehended the speedster-pony and Lemme corraled it at Hall Brothers Implement Co. until owner James Bradshaw claimed it at 4:30 p.m.

Hypnosis Helped Uncover 'The Boston Strangler'

(First of a Series.)
By DAVID SHAW
NEW YORK (NEA) — It all began on a bleak, blustery Thursday in the summer of 1962.

Mrs. Anna Slesers, a 55-year-old divorcee and Latvian immigrant, was found dead in the hall of her small Boston apartment, the blue cloth cord of her bathrobe knotted tightly around her neck, then tied in a fancy bow.

Over the next 20 months, 10 more Boston women were sexually molested, strangled and left on grisly display. The people of Boston became paralyzed with fear, too terrified to walk the streets at night.

Then—suddenly, unexpectedly, implausibly—Albert H. DeSalvo, a 33-year-old rubber factory worker and state hospital inmate who lacked all the psychological characteristics the doctors attributed to the killer, calmly told the world he was the Boston Strangler.

Moreover, he said, he had killed two women the police hadn't linked with the Strangler and had raped many others.

Few people in Boston believed DeSalvo before March 20, 1965.

On that day, DeSalvo was hypnotized by Dr. William J. Bryan, a 300-pound doctor-lawyer-hypnotanalyst from Los Angeles. Dr. Bryan placed DeSalvo in a deep hypnotic trance, regressed him to the morning 18 months earlier when the Strangler had killed his 11th woman, then told him to relate what he saw and felt.

DeSalvo, his voice breaking in anguished recollection, told of the murder of Mrs. Evelyn Corbin. He acted the assault out, actually relived it in such detail that no one could seriously doubt he was, indeed, the Strangler.

The Boston Strangler, though not the first American criminal case in which hypnosis was used, was by far the most dramatic. Before the Strangler, most members of the legal profession looked on it as black magic more befitting a nightclub than a courtroom. After the Strangler, many began to re-examine their views, and at least one high-ranking judicial body—the California Supreme Court—ruled evidence obtained under hypnosis admissible in court.

It is generally agreed that the father of hypnosis was Anton Mesmer, the 18th-century Viennese physician and astrologer. Mesmer thought the planets influenced human health by exerting magnetic attractions on the body and attempted to simulate this influence by stroking sick persons with artificial magnets, producing what came to be known as the "mesmerized" trance, the forerunner of modern hypnosis.

It was another 30 years before British physician James Braid substituted verbal hypnosis for physical contact. One hundred years after that hypnosis really emerged from the shadows to capture public attention.

The year was 1952. Morey Bernstein, full-time investment broker and part-time hypnotist, placed a 29-year-old Denver housewife in a deep hypnotic trance and regressed her back through her own life to "another time, another life."

In six hypnotic sessions over 18 months, Mrs. Ginny Tighe, native of Wisconsin, wife of a used car salesman, told in a thick Irish brogue of her life as Bridget Murphy MacCarthy—Bridget Murphy—in Ireland from 1798 to 1864.

Most psychologists and psychiatrists scoffed at Bridget Murphy. They said Mrs. Tighe could have read much of what she "remembered" about Ireland, could have absorbed some of it from her Irish grandmother and could have imcently contrived the rest under the inhibition-freeing effects of hypnosis.

But by the time Mrs. Tighe called off the probe into her subconscious, scores of new Bridey Murphys were clamoring for attention. It seemed almost everyone wanted to have a previous life, to undergo hypnosis, to hypnotize someone else.

By the time of the Boston Strangler, 13 years later, hypnosis had attracted a devoted, almost fanatical cult of believers, and needed only such a cause celebre to gain widespread public acceptance.

With this sudden blossoming of respectable interest in hypnosis, it was only natural that misconceptions would flourish. Hypnosis was hailed as a magic cure-all and reviled as psychic castration. The truth lies somewhere between the extremes.

Basically, there are three levels of hypnotic trance—lethargic, cataleptic and somnambulistic. With a skilled hypnotist, almost everyone (nine out of 10) can be placed in a lethargic (light) trance.

Though a subject, in rare circumstances, can be hypnotized without his knowledge or previously stated approval, it is virtually impossible to hypnotize him against his will unless a hypnotic drug is forcibly injected into the bloodstream.

Tests have shown children aged 8 to 14 are the best subjects for hypnosis, but beyond that, no one is sure which specific personality types may be more susceptible than others. There is a tendency for the extrovert, the aesthete, the adventurer, the religionist and the person who readily accedes to authority to make excellent subjects and for the cynic, the egotist and the individualist to make poor subjects.

But these are gross generalizations on a question of secondary importance. The significant question is not who can be hypnotized, but what happens—and what doesn't happen—under hypnosis.

Harry E. Thompson To Be Candidate

Harry E. Thompson, Chairman of the Board of County Commissioners' race will be Commissioner, announced Saturday that due to the request of many friends and to the urging of the Morgan County Republican precinct committee, he will seek re-election to the office of County Commissioner on the Republican ticket.

Petitions will be circulated by Republican precinct committeemen throughout the county in the next few days.

Thompson earlier announced that he would retire when his term expires in December. A meeting of the Republican Central Committee earlier in the week resulted in an unanimous decision to ask Thompson to reconsider his earlier decision and a committee was appointed to call upon Thompson in an attempt to have him as a candidate.

Mr. Thompson said "I had planned to retire from public office and confine my activities to farming and other business interests, but I have always enjoyed and appreciated the opportunity to serve Morgan County residents in the best way that I can.

"I have enjoyed helping to bring the County's General Fund into its present solvent position and I am very proud of the work that has been done in the past ten years to bring our Courthouse to its present fine condition."

Explosion In Vietnam Injures Greenfield Man

GREENFIELD — Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Burroughs received word last week that their son Col. C. Robert Burroughs, USMC, who has been on duty in Da Nang, South Vietnam, since Sept. 14, had sustained a missile wound to the right side of his head. The injury was caused by flying debris from an explosion of an ammunition dump adjacent to the Command Post.

Later word received showed that his condition is good and he has returned to duty. Col. Burroughs expects to leave for Sydney, Australia, on his R&R leave on March 13th for five days. His wife Nona and youngest daughter Sally, a senior in high school, reside in Alexandria, Va., and their eldest daughter Susan is attending the University of North Carolina in Greensboro.

EVANGELIST TO CONDUCT CASS SERVICES

CHANDLERVILLE — Featured during revival services to be held at the Chandlerville United Methodist church March 2 through 9 will be Reverend Herbert Buwalda Sr., who has conducted evangelistic meetings throughout the United States and Canada as well as in Korea. Reverend Buwalda will be assisted by Reverend Orval Lundberg, pastor of the church.

Highlighting the weeklong observance will be an appearance by the Lester Family Singers, a well-known gospel group from St. Louis, who will be featured at the Wednesday evening service.

Reverend Buwalda is a graduate of Taylor University in Upland, Ind. He has held pastorates in Michigan and Indiana and is planning a series of evangelistic services in West Africa and the Dominican Republic during the next two years.

LOCAL WOMAN HURT IN FOUR-CAR CRASH

Mrs. Norma Jean Lowe, Democratic candidate for City Treasurer in the April 15 election, sustained minor injuries in a four-car accident about 1:30 p.m. Saturday at the intersection of S Main and Morton.

Mrs. Lowe, of 828 Henry, was treated for neck injuries at Passavant Hospital and later released.

City police said Mrs. Lowe was the driver of one of three cars which were damaged when an eastbound auto driven by Duan E. Kleinschmidt, Route Five, Jacksonville, rammed the Lowe car. The Lowe auto then collided with another stopped car operated by Donald E. Combs of Hindsboro, Ill.

The Combs auto then struck the rear of a car operated by Clement D. Black of White Hall. Kleinschmidt was ticketed for failure to reduce speed.

IREC's Annual Essay Contest Now Underway

By Naomi Lawson
(Winchester Correspondent)
(Telephone 742-3490)

WINCHESTER — Two high school students in this area will enjoy a week's expense-paid tour of Washington, D.C. June 7 through 14 as first prizes for two winners of the annual essay contest sponsored by the Illinois Rural Electric Cooperative at Winchester. Second place winners will each receive a $25 savings bond. Essays must be received at the IREC office in Winchester by April 15.

Any sophomore or junior living in the area served by IREC may enter the contest. One first and one second place winner will be chosen from each side of the Illinois River.

Students will prepare essays of 1,000 words or less on the rural electric cooperative contribution to the area and people it serves. Resource material is available through English teachers of participating schools or the member service department of IREC. Judging will be based on originality, accuracy of facts, composition, and oral presentation to a panel of judges selected from the IREC area.

Local winners will join nearly 1,000 winners from co-ops all over the United States in touring the White House, the Capitol Building, Mt. Vernon, Gettysburg, the Smithsonian Institute, the Wax Museum and Arlington National Cemetery.

Unit To Meet
The Town and Country Home-Makers Extension unit will meet at 7:30 p.m. Monday at the home of Mrs. Robert Reid with Mrs. Wayne Bruns as assistant hostess.

Mrs. Florence Metternich, extension adviser, will present the major lesson "Drugs, Narcotics and Tranquilizers."

Mrs. George Myers will give the selected subject "How to Cover Scratches on Wood Furniture."

CWF To Meet
The general meeting of the First Christian church CWF will be held Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. at the church.

Mrs. Larry Exton will present the program, "The Happening." Mrs. Leonard Ploymann will be the worship leader.

The Dorcas Circle will be hostesses.

Heart Fund
Mrs. Ed Frost, chairman of the Heart Sunday campaign, reports that $266 was contributed in the drive last Sunday. She expects to make a complete report in the near future.

Unit To Meet
The Winchester Day Unit of Home Extension will meet Tuesday at 11 a.m. at the home of Mrs. Merle Helliwell with Mrs. Mary Ellen Shipley as assistant hostess. A sack lunch will be served at noon.

The extension adviser, Mrs. Florence Metternich, will give the major lesson and Mrs. James I. Coultas will give the selected subject.

Roll call is "How I Chase the Blues."

SCHOOL OFFICIALS were among the most interested observers of Saturday's $4.25 million bond issue election in School District 117. District Superintendent Dr. Clifford Crone (L) compares totals with Mrs. Mayna Preston, board secretary, as board member Jack Fairfield (C) and Dr. R. E. McKinney, chairman of the Educational Advisory Council, look on. Dr. Crone Saturday night praised the efforts of the advisory council in securing the slim 171 vote margin of victory for the bond issue.

Fatal Crash On Pike County Highway Friday

PITTSFIELD — The driver of a small foreign car was dead on arrival at Illini hospital here Friday afternoon after a collision with a larger vehicle on State Route 96, less than a mile south of Rockport.

Killed was Kenneth N. Jones, 33-year-old Florissant, Mo., man who was alone at the time of the accident. Occupants of the other car, a 1968 Buick, were Joseph C. McLain, 49, of St. Louis, his wife, Marguerite, and their sons, Matthew and Mark.

The Jones car was southbound and the McLain car northbound. According to reports, Jones attempted to pass another southbound car. went off the east side of the road for 200 feet and veered back striking the McLain car. Both cars came to a halt on the roadside.

Members of the McLain family received only slight injuries and did not seek treatment. Their car, however, received major damage, as did the 1968 Datsun German-made car.

The Jones body will be removed from the Sutter Funeral Home here to Missouri. No tickets were issued.

CAR SKIDS IN DITCH

Damage was minor in a one-car accident about 2:30 a.m. Saturday at West Morton and Massey Lane. Steven J. Mort, 20, of 1860 Cedar, was westbound on Routes 36-54, attempting a turn into Massey Lane when his car skidded into a ditch and struck a stop sign. City police said damage was minor.

Entries Accepted For Local Art Show

Entry forms for the Strawn Art Show, an exhibition of paintings and graphics to be held March 16-29 at the David Strawn Art Gallery in Jacksonville, are now available at Rogers' Office Supplies, 208 E. State, and the Jacksonville Art Center, 221 E. State.

Entries may be submitted by any Illinois artist residing within 150 miles of Jacksonville, who is 18 years of age or over. The works to be submitted must have been done within the last three years, have not been previously exhibited at the local gallery, and not exceed four feet in any dimension.

A $75 award will be presented to the "Best of Show" entry, with a $50 prize for the top-rated painting, and a $35 award for the best entry in the graphics competition. All entries will be judged by Samuel Parker, painting instructor at Western Illinois University.

A $3 entry fee will entitle each applicant to enter three original works, not necessarily in the same category. The works must be suitably framed, dry, and ready for hanging.

The exhibitor will be responsible for the arrival of his works, entry fee, entry form and acceptance card to the gallery on either March 7, from 1 to 5 p.m., or on March 8, from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

CAR THEFT SUSPECT ADMITS STEALING AUTO FROM ALTON

A Peoria man being held in the Morgan County jail on a charge of stealing a truck Thursday in Jacksonville, has admitted the theft of an auto recovered Saturday by Jacksonville police.

Lyle R. Peterson, 24, of Peoria, admitted the theft of a 1961-model auto which was stolen Wednesday from Alton. The four-door sedan had been parked in the 200 block of S. Mauvaisterre since Thursday morning.

Peterson and a companion, 18-year-old Ronald E. St. John of Long Beach, California, were apprehended in Springfield midday Thursday while riding in a truck which was taken about an hour earlier in Jacksonville. The truck was owned by Reggie Toler of Franklin.

Peterson and St. John, who is reportedly absent without leave from the U.S. Marine Corps, are being held in lieu of $1,000 cash bond.

$4.25 Million Plan Gets Needed Boost In Second Precinct

A $4.25 million bond issue proposal for funds to construct a second junior high school and ninth elementary school in District 117 was approved by a slim 171 vote margin Saturday.

Boosted by a huge 1,193 to 696 vote plurality in the second precinct, unofficial returns compiled late Saturday night at the board of education office showed 2,591 for the proposal, and 2,420 against.

The 5,104 vote total, which included some 93 spoiled ballots, represented about 35 per cent of the eligible voters in the district.

The total was well below the record 6,301 votes cast in a 1959 bond issue referendum in District 117. There were 4,302 ballots in the 1964 bond issue election.

The completion of projects at Turner junior high and JHS has been anticipated for prior to the opening of the 1970-71 school year.

The proposed additions to Turner junior high — an educational media center to replace the present library, additional teaching stations, restroom and physical education facilities — will increase the school's capacity from 500 to 700 students.

The passage of the measure will result in the issuing of bonds which will be paid off over a 13-year period beginning in 1970. School taxes will be increased by an estimated 35 cents per $100 equalized assessed valuation on all real and personal property taxes throughout the district.

This figure is expected to decrease, however, with the increase in the district tax base in the near future.

Location of Schools

Sites for the proposed schools have already been selected by the board of education, which studied the need for additional facilities for more than two years before finalizing the bond issue proposal.

The junior high school will be constructed on a 27-acre site near the intersection of North Diamond and West Oak, and will accommodate 700 students in grades 7, 8 and 9. The new grade school, with a capacity of 450 pupils, will be built on a 20-acre tract on West Lafayette, immediately west of the Westfair Baptist Church.

In addition to funds totaling $2,208,982 for the junior high, and $1,024,200 for the grade school, the entire $4.25 million package included funds for expansion and improvements to the existing Jonathan Turner Junior High, and remodeling of Jacksonville High school.

Ready by 1971

Although no construction schedule has yet been determined, school officials have

Miss America Here Thursday

The MacMurray College Physical Education Department will sponsor a Demonstration Clinic on the trampoline with Miss Judi Ford, the current Miss America, as the clinician, and Springfield resident Vicki Bolinger, second in world competition, will demonstrate the routines.

The public is invited to attend the clinic Thursday at 6 p.m. in the MacMurray Fieldhouse, free of charge.

Miss America's visit to Jacksonville is three-fold according to Frederick Douglas, co-chairman for the Jaycees project. Miss Ford will provide educational, promotional and public relations for the local and surrounding community.

Her itinerary will also include a ribbon-cutting ceremony for the Stratman Olds - Cadillac dealership, as well as the local Pageant Promotion Dinner at the Beef and the Bird Restaurant.

Move Brown Co. Murder Trial To Adams Court

MT. STERLING — The case pending in Brown county court on a murder charge against Mrs. Sandra Stout of Mt. Sterling was brought before the judge last week and Mrs. Stout was granted a change of venue.

The defendant is charged with murdering an infant whose body was found in November on a dump south of Mt. Sterling.

The case will be heard in Adams county but no date has been set at this time for the new hearing.

GOP Gals Meet
Members of the Brown county Woman's Republican club met Thursday evening, Feb. 27th, in the meeting room at the Mt. Sterling Public Library. Coffee was served.

Mary Alice Bobo has returned to her home here after being a patient in Culbertson hospital at Rushville.

Revival services are being held at the First Baptist church here through March 7th. The speaker is Rev. Eugene E. Paden and the theme is "The Living of These Days." Rev. Kenneth A. Anderson is pastor of the church.
